

PHILIPS indispensable in every home

DRIVES AWAY YOUR PAINS

GERMAN'S GLOUCESTER ARCADE

THE WEATHER

Moderate east winds. Fair. Noon Temp: 79 degrees. Noon Humid: 66 p.c.

CHINA MAIL

Established 1845

No. 37498

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1959.

Price 20 Cents

LATE FINAL

JETS

TOKYO

Honolulu—San Francisco/Los Angeles

For Reservations, Phone 37031

PAN AMERICAN

Comment Of The Day

DISAPPOINTING VISIT

THE China Mail's music critic described the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra's concert at the Lee Theatre on Sunday as disappointing. That may be a consolation to the thousands who wanted to see it, but couldn't, but there must be many who are still regretting that an orchestra of such standing visited the Colony and gave so few an opportunity to attend.

Thanks to Radio Hongkong, there was no difficulty hearing it, but who would deny that the spectacle of a big orchestra playing under such a master as von Karajan and the atmosphere of the performance itself, far outweigh the pleasure to be had from hearing either a recording or a broadcast of it. Harry Odell's idea of holding the concert at Caroline Hill football stadium in a "shell" was by far the best.

WHAT was disappointing was that von Karajan refused to play in the stadium. But beyond one embarrassed apology there has been no official explanation why. It could not have been objection to an open-air performance as such, because this is an established practice in many parts of the world. And a few years ago a leading American orchestra performed in the Macpherson stadium in Kowloon. And Marian Anderson sang in the Hongkong football stadium.

Musically, perhaps, these concerts left a lot to be desired, but to the majority they were memorable occasions. Neither could compare with one held at London's Festival Hall or the Carnegie Hall, but at least thousands who wanted to see big-name musicians in action saw them. The question that occurs is whether the Vienna Philharmonic performed any better in the cramped conditions of the Lee Theatre stage? And if unsuitable arrangements at Caroline Hill was the reason why the concert was not held in the stadium, how could the orchestra be satisfied with the Music Society's alternative?

AN orchestra like the Vienna Philharmonic is too well-known to play to such a restricted audience. Several thousands saw it in action at Manila's two concerts. And Japan is to have no less than 10, yet Hongkong had to be satisfied with one in a small theatre at prices which were prohibitive, particularly to students.

If big orchestras are going to insist on being heard only at their best—and in the new City Hall there will soon be a concert hall worthy of the best—let them bypass Hongkong if they cannot stay longer than a day. But what many are asking is that if Marian Anderson and the Los Angeles Philharmonic could "lun" it in Hongkong, why couldn't the Vienna Philharmonic do the same?

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD WHAT'S ON THE OTHER SIDE

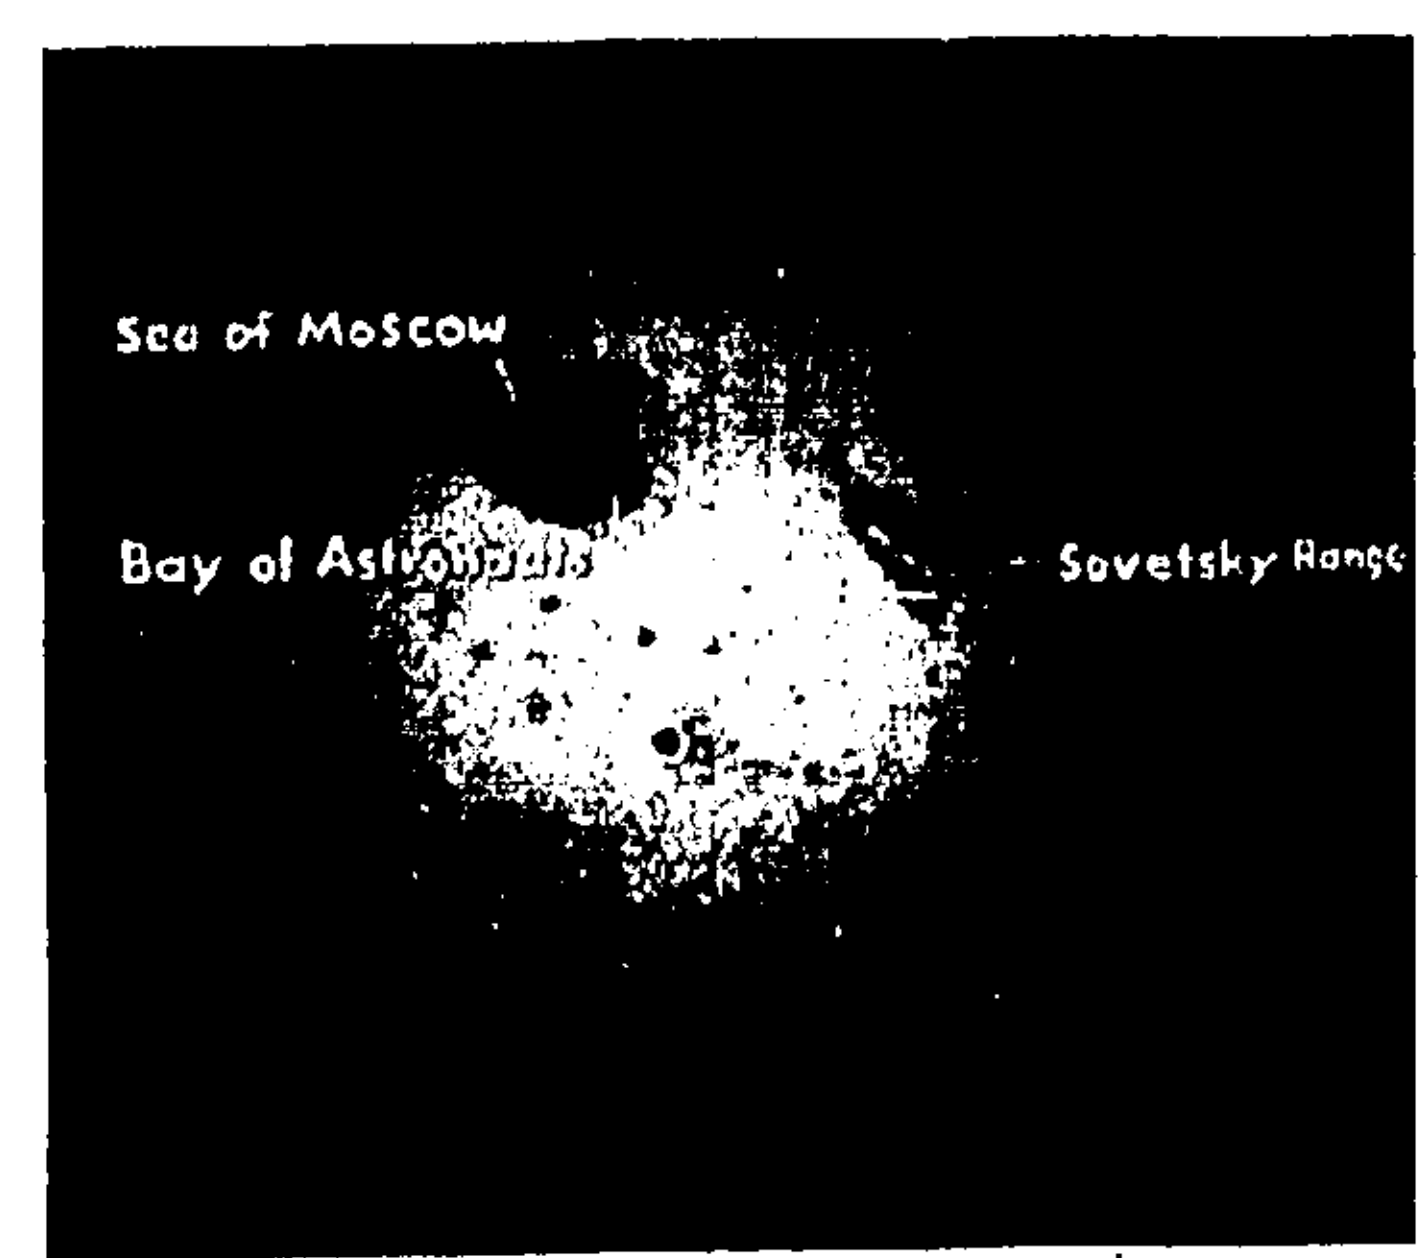

THE MOON'S SMOOTH FACE

Lunik's Picture Clears Up The Big Mystery

London, Oct. 27.

The moon's unseen side has a much smoother face than the side that earth can see — that is what Russia's Lunik III reports. Its photographs, which have staggered the world with their clarity, have picked out the main features which Russia is already naming. The photos were released by Moscow half an hour after midnight and then flashed on TV screens in Moscow and published in today's big newspapers — Pravda and Izvestia.

The main features of the two-faced moon are two black blobs or "seas" — one bigger than the other.

The China Mail's "telescope" looks at the reverse side of the moon... this is our artist's impression of the picture that Lunik III took, based on cabled details. These reports talk of one big sea known as the Sea of Moscow, and another smaller sea known as the Humboldt Sea, and under it the Sovetsky range.

A DIFFERENT LUNIK, TOO

Russia today released a picture of Lunik III — the Soviet space station which took the sensational pictures of the smooth, reverse side of the moon.

The photograph shows it to be different in shape from all previous space-probe machines. The only familiar features are the antennae — four sprouting from the head and two more projecting from the rear. The photograph shows small "port holes" around the sloping upper part which could presumably be the protective lenses of the photographic apparatus.

A belt of what appears to be reflectors is presumably the exterior of the solar batteries which supplied part of the power to operate the camera and other instruments during the Lunik's flight around the moon and back to the region of the earth.

The Russians also announced that contrary to earlier expectations the photo-taking Lunik will last only six months. Originally it was hoped the rocket would stay up for several years.

Experts in the West suspected that something had gone wrong and that the Lunik had strayed from the orbit originally set for it — All agencies.

The Duke Terms Iata's Decision As 'Obstinate'

Refusal To Cut Fares

London, Oct. 26.

The Duke of Edinburgh today charged that the International Air Transport Association has "obstinately refused" to lower air fares despite benefits which would follow such cuts.

Prince Philip told a 50th anniversary meeting of the Air League of the British Empire he was "highly disappointed" with the Iata which has obstinately refused to recognise the force of the League's arguments for cheaper fares on world routes.

BOAC'S STAND

"We are waiting with considerable interest to see what is going to happen to Boac's application for reduced fares on routes which are not subject to the Iata agreement," the Duke said.

A recent meeting of the Iata in Tokyo rejected proposals to cut fares on world air routes, mainly because those airlines without Iata membership wanted to hold out until they were so equipped. The League believes that lower fares will stimulate more

Pumpkin

"Instead of the rugged crater face of the moon with 'continental shadows' the previously invisible side looks more like a pumpkin into which a mischievous boy has plunged his finger here and there."

Another agency said two giant spots which could be compared to eyes on the moon's face, were isolated, one in the northwest, the other in the northeast.

Professor Alexander Mikhailov, Chairman of the Academy of Sciences, said tonight that a remarkable thing about the photographs was that the unseen part "is considerably more monotonous than the side turned towards earth."

"It contains fewer seas and fewer craters."

"Astronomers and geologists are thus faced with an exciting problem — to explain this phenomenon which, beyond any doubt, is associated with the question of the origin of the moon's relief."

"The photographs will be minutely studied so as to bring out all relevant details."

And The Names . . .

Russia has wasted no time naming the features of second face of the moon.

The larger of the black blobs has been called the Sea of Moscow, described in literature as a crater about 187 miles in diameter.

Two prominent craters were named after French atomic scientists Frederic Joliot Curie, and another after the 16th century Russian scientist, Mikhail Lomonosov.

The second "eye" was called the Sea of Humboldt, after the German physicist Baron Alexander Humboldt.

Another crater was named after Professor Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, a Soviet space rocket expert.

A mountain range south of the Humboldt Sea is to be called Sovetsky range.

And a sea near the border of the invisible part of the moon will be known as the Sea of Dreams.

Radio Moscow revealed that Lunik III took not just one photo, but several photographs over a period of 40 minutes during its passage around the smooth side of the moon.

Special

These it sent back to earth with special photo-television apparatus. The film was processed inside Lunik III. Then a special radio-technical system transmitted the pictures 300,000 miles back to earth.

Commentators said: "The television equipment made possible the transmission of half-tone pictures of a high definition."

Jodrell Bank Radio Telescope Professor A. C. E. Lovell declared today: "I'm astonished at the quality of the photographs. This is an outstanding achievement for the Russians and I think this opens up very great possibilities for photographing other planets, particularly Mars and Venus."

In America, the director of Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said tonight he had no doubt that the Soviet pictures of the reverse side of the moon were authentic. He said: "It was a remarkable feat — All Agencies."

Syrian Officers Under Arrest

Baghdad, Oct. 26.

A number of high-ranking Syrian army officers, including colonels and lieutenant-colonels, have been placed under arrest, Baghdad radio said today, quoting reports from Damascus.

The radio also reported that a number of other ranking Syrian officers had been dismissed their posts. —AP.

MR JACK HONG DEA

Deaf-Mute Seeks Wife In Hongkong

Jack Hong Dea, a deaf-mute shoemaker from San Francisco, arrived here this morning in the steamer President Wilson, to seek a young Chinese lady who is "of good character, either a deaf-mute, or suffering from either deafness or muteness."

The young Chinese deaf-mute had no major problems during his journey. Not only does he use the international sign language, but he also reads and writes English and Chinese.

To assist him during the voyage, APL assigned to him Mr. Glen Y. Lee, a Chinese purser of the passenger liner. But Mr. Lee said everything had been "plain sailing" for the intellectual Jack Hong Dea had been "the perfect passenger and no problem."

SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Mr Dea has been deaf and dumb since the age of three, due to infantile paralysis. Apart from his affliction, he is otherwise fully fit.

He studied at the California School for the Deaf in Berkeley, USA, during the years 1937-1941. He learnt Chinese before immigrating to the United States.

In his quest for a Chinese bride, he will be assisted during his six months stay in Hongkong by his cousin, Mr. Peter Chang of the Christian Chinese Lutheran Mission in Kowloon. Mr. Chang was at the wharf to meet Mr Dea.

Jack Hong Dea is a happy man, despite his handicap. His father died many years ago and he is living with mother and other members of the family. They own the Emporium Shoe Store in San Francisco. Jack has been making shoes there for nineteen years.

It is his first visit to Hongkong. And this is the most important voyage of his lifetime.

He plans to devote the additional time to politics.

"He has no intention of retiring from anything other than being a professional author," said the associate. "He seems to be taking just as keen an interest in his duties in the House of Commons as he has ever done."

"In fact whenever he is in Britain and the House is sitting — he will be there."

Sir Winston completed his grand design of writing — one of the few authors who can have had that satisfaction — with his monumental

A close associate said today that it was "highly improbable" the 84-year-old statesman would ever again write for payment.

Sir Winston thus ends only one of his many careers — and with his writing desk cleared for the first time in 61 years he

Non-Disclosure Of Fuel Price 'A Bit Unfair'

Chairman's Remarks At Electricity Inquiry

Mr John Mould, Chairman of the Electricity Inquiry Commission, remarked this morning that the non-disclosure of the average price of fuel to the public "seemed to be a bit unfair to the consumers."

Mr Mould made the remark when Mr E. Lauffer, Statistician of the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., said to the best of his knowledge it was at the request of the oil company that they did not disclose the price of fuel as it was in 1949.

Earlier, Mr R. P. G. Dennis, representing the Hongkong Cotton Spinners Association, had asked Mr Lawrence Kadoorie, Chairman of China Light, if he could have thought of disclosing a "tiny portion" of information regarding the fuel to a "limited people" in 1957.

PREFERENTIAL

Mr Kadoorie said then the Company was receiving preferential rates for oil. "We had an oil contract, and to divulge the price of basic raw material might prejudice our chances of getting these preferential rates in the same way as any industry would not give voluntarily its cost of raw material or manufacturing cost."

Mr Mould remarked that in the United Kingdom, the average price of coal and oil was declared at the end of the financial year to enable consumers to check on the rightness of the surcharge. He asked whether there was any objection to it.

Mr Lauffer said to the best of his knowledge it was at the request of the oil company that they did not disclose the price of fuel in 1949.

Mr Mould: "It seems a bit unfair to the consumers."

Earlier, Mr Lauffer was cross-examined by Mr Dennis on the fuel cost, the thermal value of coal and fuel, and the thermal efficiency of producing electricity.

NOT THE ANSWER

Mr Dennis: "When the change-over from coal to oil was made, should not have the fuel clause been adjusted to keep in steps with the change of circumstances?"

Mr Lauffer: "When it did happen it produced very much lower fuel cost per unit generated which was passed on to consumers in lowering the basic rates."

Mr Mould: "Mr Dennis, this is not really the answer to your question. Is it not a fact when you changed over to oil — if you should improve any significant change in thermal efficiency — the fuel clause should have been recast?"

Mr Lauffer: "The fuel clause as such should have been recast."

Mr Lauffer said he would not accept the Spinners' contention that the application of the fuel clause as adopted by the

PROCEDURE

On the question of procedure, Mr Mould said that save with leave no party might address the Commission on matters other than those referred to in his written submission, but cross-examination was not limited to this written submission. Parties had the right to cross-examine other parties on matters raised, when they addressed the Commission.

(Contd. on Back Page, Col. 5)

ALLEGEDLY OFFERED DETECTIVE $20,000

Three Charged

Two men and a woman appeared before Central Magistrate, Mr T. L. Yang this morning charged with conspiring to offer $20,000 corruptly to a British Police officer to release two people detained in Chatham Road compound.

They are Sze Shing-chuen, 45, unemployed, of 16 Wharf Road, first floor; Pao Chi-chung, 44, manager of the Broadway Bar in Hennessy Road; and Wong Ying, 30, of 331 King's Road, second floor.

The offer was allegedly made to Detective Sub-Inspector W. M. Ross.

The names of the two people, detained at Chatham Road compound were stated to be Liu King-man and O Kang.

The three defendants were remanded for three days in police custody on application of Inspector Ross.

No plea was taken.

Tug Brings Back Ship Which Lost Propeller

The Hongkong tug Kowloon-docks, returned here this morning with the disabled Italian freighter, Luigi, which suddenly lost her propeller at sea.

The mishap occurred on October 18 while she was going from the Philippines to Hongkong to load rice for Poland.

Capt. F. Perna said the crew took the incident very calmly and he decided to weigh anchor until a tug arrived.

At that time they were 40 miles south of Communist-held Hainan Island.

Fishing

"While we were awaiting the arrival of the tug we enjoyed ourselves fishing."

He said the tug did a fine job towing the Luigi back to Hongkong.

The Chief Engineer, Mr A. Scognamiglio said that the propeller was lost when the shaft suddenly snapped.

He said the second engineer, Mr Pietro Roggi, who was on watch at the time, stopped the engine a few seconds after. But for his quick action there might have been more serious trouble.

The captain said this was the first such accident to have occurred on any of his ships in his 32 years at sea.

Capt. Perna said he was waiting for instructions from his owners about his next port of call of the ship after the new propeller has been fitted at Kowloon Docks.

This is expected to take about one week.

Churchill Lays Down His Pen

London, Oct. 26.

Sir Winston Churchill has laid down the pen that mobilised the English language on the side of the Allies in the last war — and made him one of the highest paid authors of all time.

A close associate said today that it was "highly improbable" the 84-year-old statesman would ever again write for payment.

Sir Winston thus ends only one of his many careers — and with his writing desk cleared for the first time in 61 years he plans to devote the additional time to politics.

"He has no intention of retiring from anything other than being a professional author," said the associate. "He seems to be taking just as keen an interest in his duties in the House of Commons as he has ever done."

"In fact whenever he is in Britain and the House is sitting — he will be there."

Sir Winston completed his grand design of writing — one of the few authors who can have had that satisfaction — with his monumental

"History of the English Speaking Peoples" in 1958. In the years back to 1938 he wrote novels, histories, biographies and commentaries on public events — all touched with the sonorous, rolling prose that was worth an army to his nation when he rallied Britain in the perilous days of 1940.

In 1953 he received the Nobel Prize for literature — largely for his six volume history of World War II which made him possibly the only Englishman to earn as much as $1,000,000 since the armistice. Sir Winston's first book, "The Malakand Field Force" — a campaign in which he participated as a young officer — ranked his superiors who regarded his comments on their strategy as impudent. But the book caused such a stir that within a year young Winston was the highest paid war correspondent of his time.

That's another career long since closed out.

Sir Winston still has painting, poker and politics to keep him busy as he approaches his 85th birthday on November 30. —UPI.

KING'S PRINCESS

Please Note Special Times:
2.30, 5.10, 7.30 & 9.40 p.m. 2.30, 5.15, 7.30 & 9.50 p.m.

★ FINAL TO-DAY ★

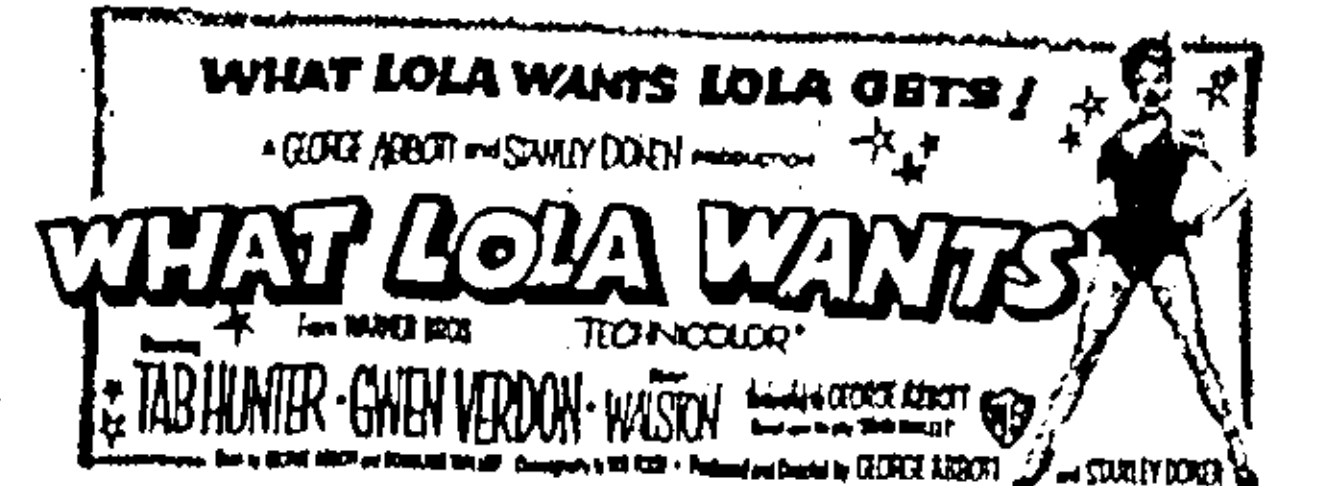

THE BUCCANEER

From The Master Motion Picture Maker!

STARTS TO-MORROW

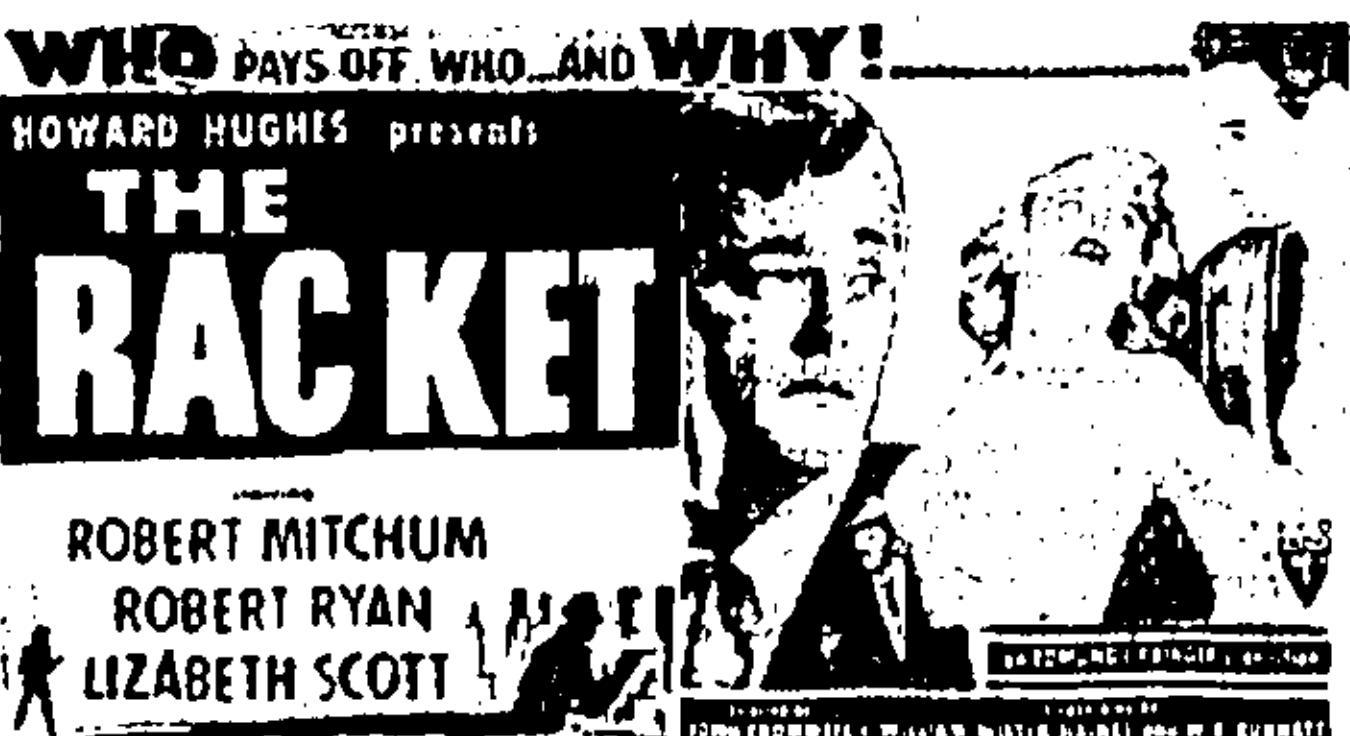

COMING SOON

ROXY & BROADWAY

TO-DAY & TO-MORROW ONLY
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

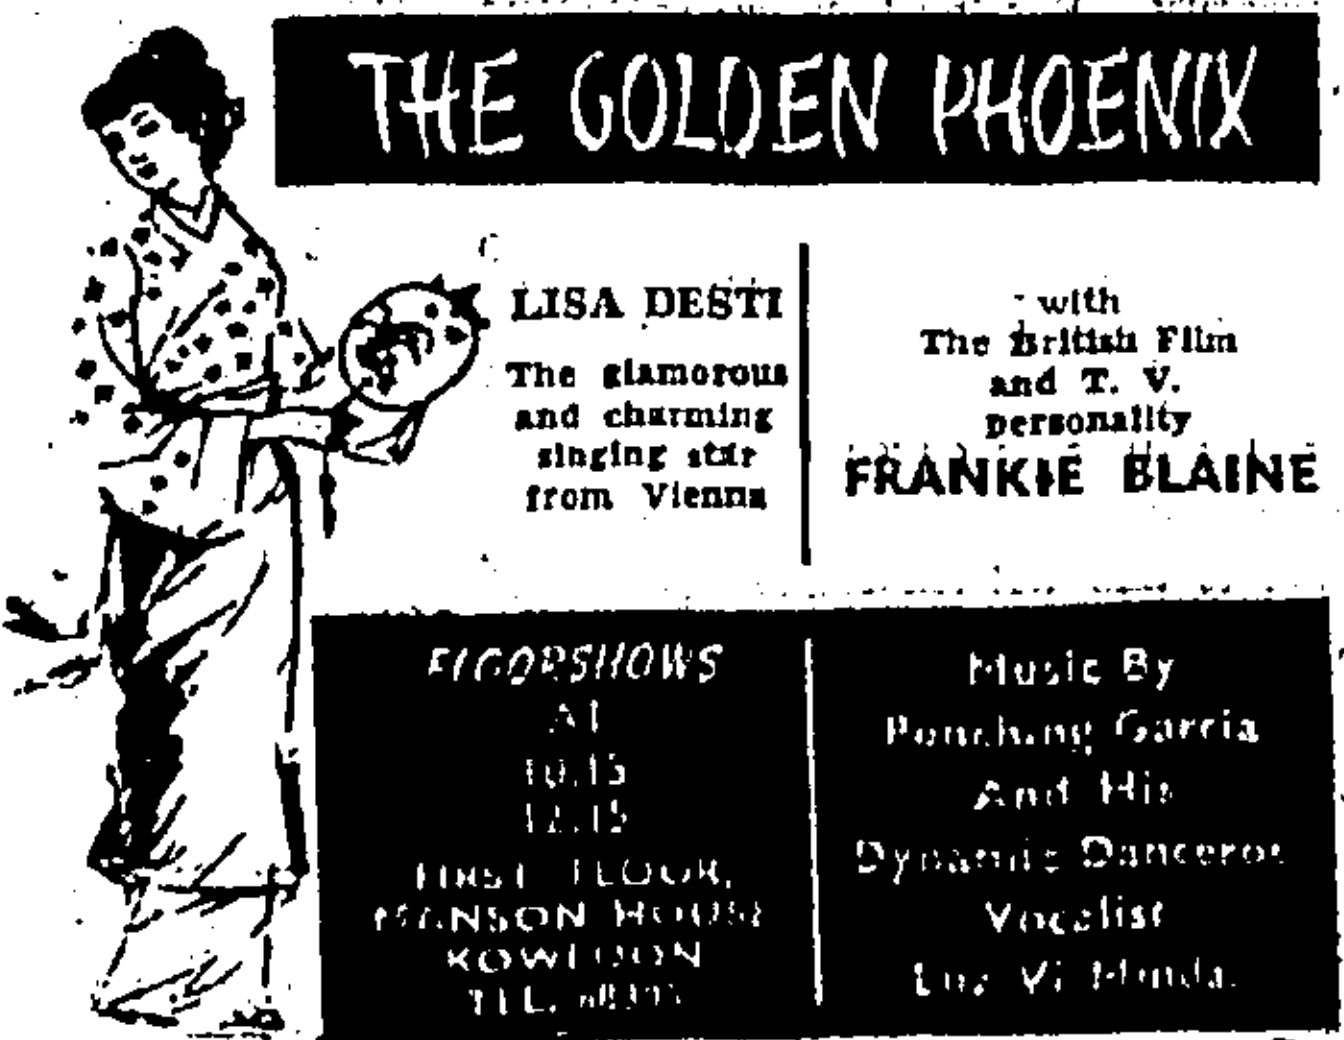

THRILLING AND SUSPENSEFUL AS IT WAS IN FACT!

GRAND OPENING ON THURS., 29th OCT.
WOMEN ... AT THE MERCY OF A PLEASURE-SEEKING GUERRILLA WAR LORD!

BOOKINGS NOW OPEN!!

NOW Dr BIN CHENG DEVISES MOON LA W

£2,400
Grant
From U.S.

London, Oct. 26. A jovial, bespectacled Chinese here is putting the finishing touches to a book about problems of space law and the future ownership of the moon and the planets.

He is 38-year-old Dr Bin Cheng, a naturalised Englishman and lecturer in law at the University College, London.

He was awarded a grant of £2,400 by the Rockefeller Foundation for research into the law of outer space, and has been working through the summer on collating the enormous amount of material he collected.

Preliminary
Dr Bin said that his work consisted mainly of a preliminary survey on the approach to space law as such.

"I have tried to explain that space law is separate legal system, which incorporates and can use the projection of existing earth legal systems to space," he said.

He went on: "I have reviewed the problem from the historical, sociological and ethical perspectives and have tried to visualise the law as being based on those lines."

His work includes basic principles about the acquisition of territory on planets, space navigation and rights.

He is trying to avoid laying down hard and fast rules which would stand little chance of being accepted by the governments concerned.

Rivalry
"What I am aiming at is something rather similar to the Hague Convention on Warfare—with far less rigid rules," he said.

Dr Bin said he was working as a private individual, unsponsored by any government. But he was taking into account political implications such as rivalry between the United States and Russia.

He said he had discussed basic problems with American and Russian lawyers when he was in New York last year for the international law conference, but he was not working in liaison with them.

He said that he hoped to complete his work shortly when it would be published, and he hoped, studied by the various governments.—Reuter.

Toy Dog In Rocket Is Deplored

Liverpool, Oct. 26. Animal-lovers are campaigning to ban a children's rocket with a tiny toy dog in its nose-cone because they believe it will foster callousness in youngsters.

Mr Richard Clitherow, Liverpool branch secretary of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, an organisation which protested at the use of dogs in Russian space rockets, was the first to complain about the firework.

He is now seeking the help of Liverpool's nine members of Parliament to keep it out of the Liverpool shops.

CRUEL STREAK
Mr Clitherow said today that it is available to children for Guy Fawkes' night on November 5—a centuries-old annual firework celebration of the discovery of a plot to blow up the Parliament. It could give youngsters "horrid thoughts and a cruel streak."—Reuter.

'BEATEN TILL HIS MOUTH BLEED'

New York, Oct. 26. The Daily News reported today that U.S. Army Sgt. James B. King was beaten so badly on the soles of his feet by Turkish police that blood poured from his mouth and nose. The News published excerpts from letters written to his brother by Sgt. Joe Proietti, King and Proietti, along with two other U.S. soldiers, to an trial on Wednesday at a court-martial on charges of violating Turkish curfew regulations.

Andy Proietti, Pleasantville, New York, told the News that he received several letters from his brother Joe, who was in the hospital. Sgt. Proietti wrote that King's feet were tied to a pole, which was raised until only King's shoulders and head touched the ground. "With a whip, they proceeded to beat the soles of his feet to the extent that blood came from his mouth," Proietti said.

Another soldier, Sgt. Dale McCullough, was beaten so badly that he feared for his life, Proietti said. "He was a man," the sergeant said of McCullough. U.S. Congressmen have charged that two U.S. military officers in Turkey were responsible for protesting the soldiers' mistreatment and that the State Department has kept silent for fear of provoking retaliation of the Turkish government.—UPI.

Elected New Archbishop Of Australia

Sydney, Oct. 27. The Archbishop of Sydney, Dr Hugh Rowlands Gough, was elected Australia's new Anglican primate today.

Dr Gough's official title now is Lord Archbishop of Sydney, Metropolitan of the province of New South Wales, and Primate of Australia.

Dr Gough succeeds the former primate, the late Archbishop Mowll of Sydney. Dr Gough, aged 53, is a former suffragan Bishop of Barking.

During the war he served as a chaplain in the Western Desert, Tunisia and Italy. He was wounded and mentioned in despatches. In 1945 he was awarded the O.B.E.—China Mail Special.

Macmillan Hears Of Cyprus Crisis

London, Oct. 26. Mr Harold Macmillan, the Prime Minister, today discussed the crisis threatening plans for the establishment of an independent Cyprus republic with Sir Hugh Foot, the Cyprus governor, and top cabinet ministers and chiefs of staff.

Work of the Cyprus constitutional committee in Nicosia has been halted by order of Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot leader, following allegations of Turkish arms smuggling.—Reuter.

The Queen's Speech

London, Oct. 26. The Prime Minister, Mr Harold Macmillan today obtained the cabinet's approval of the speech from the throne which will be delivered tomorrow, and which contains measures for dealing with unemployment.—AFP.

THIS PUB IS FOR WOMEN ONLY!

The planned opening here of a "Saddle Hawkes Bar" for women only has angered local feminist leaders.

The bar is to be opened in the 300-year-old Horn and Trumpet public house on November 7 to coincide with "Saddle Hawkes Day" in the United States when women stand men drinks. Men will only be allowed into the new bar if invited and will not be permitted to buy drinks. Opposition to the plan is being organised by 22 women's organisations, grouped in the Local Standing Conference of Women's Organisations.

Mrs A. L. Salt, the Vice-President of the conference, said today: "The thought of women being enticed into a public house is alarming. Women should meet over a cup of tea." The conference is to hold a protest meeting in the town.—China Mail Special.

By Gog

IN WALES THEY PLAY THE HARP

AND THEY DRINK Carlsberg

Clergyman Concealed His Wife's Suicide

London, Oct. 26. A shuffling clergyman told a coroner's inquest today he had concealed his wife's suicide because "I could not bear the public to know that she had gone this way."

The Rev. Ernest Thornburn, his voice choked with sobs, told the coroner he had not told the coroner's officers or a doctor that his wife had committed suicide because "my wife was a good Christian woman well known, loved and respected."

The minister's wife, Winifred, 65, was found dead by her husband in her gas-filled kitchen last Wednesday.

NOTE FOUND
Rev Thornburn said he carried his wife's body out of the kitchen and put her in bed, then called a doctor. His daughter found a suicide note, but Rev Thornburn told the doctor nothing of what had happened.

The coroner recording a verdict of suicide, commented: "I can sympathise with the Rev. Mr Thornburn in his desire to keep his wife's name unsullied. But what in fact he has served to do is to bring more publicity on the deceased than if the full story had been told."—UPI.

Empress If She Produces An Heir

Tehran, Oct. 26. Reports current in Tehran today said that Farah Diba, who was to marry the Shah of Iran, would receive the title of "Empress" upon her marriage.

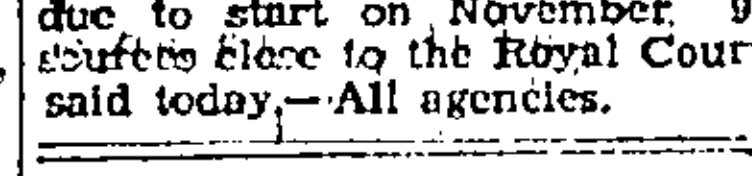

She would be proclaimed "Empress" only if she gave the Shah a male heir.

Meanwhile Farah stayed modestly away from the official ceremonies in Paris today marking the 40th birthday of her future husband.

About 500 diplomats and correspondents jammed the Iranian Embassy for the Paris celebration of the Shah's anniversary. It is understood that the engagement of the Shah of Persia to the 21-year-old architectural student, Farah Diba, will not be announced until after a State visit to Iran by the President of Pakistan due to start on November 9, suffers here to the Royal Court said today.—All agencies.

STATE

TO-DAY & TO-MORROW
AT 2.30, 5.15, 7.20 & 9.30 P.M.

OPENS THURSDAY
Rita Hayworth & Stewart Granger
in "SALOOME"
Technicolor

CAPITOL

SHOWING TO-DAY
AT 2.30, 5.15, 7.30 & 9.45 p.m.

SEE TWO chained fugitives—desperately trying to escape from the law—and each other!

ORIENTAL MAJESTIC

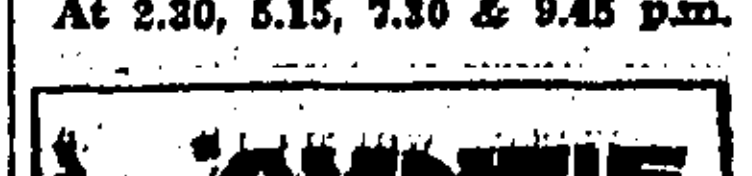

SHOWING TO-DAY
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.

SEE TWO chained fugitives—desperately trying to escape from the law—and each other!

Lee Astor

To-day at 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.

Added: THE CORONATION OF POPE JOHN XXIII
In Eastman Color

Metropole Ritz

TO-DAY & TO-MORROW ONLY!
METROPOLE: AT 2.30, 5.45 & 9.00 P.M.
RITZ: AT 2.30, 5.45 & 9.15 P.M.

The World's Most Honored Show

MICHAEL TUDOR'S
Around the World in 80 days

52 Best Picture Awards and World-Wide Honors

with 6-track Stereophonic Sound at METROPOLE only.
Admissions: $1.20, $1.70, $2.40, $3.00 & $3.50
NEXT CHANGE

HOOPER GALA STAR

SHOWING TO-DAY
Hoover & Gala at 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 and 9.30 p.m.
Star at 2.45, 5.45, 7.45 and 9.45 p.m.
GOD CREATED WOMAN FOR MAN AND SEX BEGAN!

APAM AND EYE

and CARLOS BAENA
Directed by ALBERT GOUT WIDE SCREEN in Eastman Color

ORIENTAL MAJESTIC

SHOWING TO-DAY
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.

SEE Two chained fugitives—desperately trying to escape from the law—and each other!

FINAL TO-DAY

AT 2.30, 5.20, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

SEE Two chained fugitives—desperately trying to escape from the law—and each other!

China Would Release Ten Captured Indians

Peking, Oct. 27.
China today said she was prepared to release 10 Indian personnel captured in a clash on the Tibet-Ladakh border last week.

ANTI-PEKING RALLY IN INDIA

Bombay, Oct. 26.
Students paraded through the streets of Kachapur, Bombay State, today shouting slogans against "Chinese aggression" into Indian territory which resulted in the death of nine Indian border police in Ladakh last week.

In Trivandrum, capital of Kerala State, where the Communist government was replaced by federal rule last July 31, students of the University College abstained from classes in protest against Chinese "aggression."

Many of the students belonged to the Communist-backed Students Federation.

Meanwhile, demands that China vacate the territory she "seized" and that India take "firm military action" continued to be voiced today by various political parties and leaders.—Reuter.

2 Cypriots Acquitted Of Murder

Nicosia, Oct. 26.
Two 20-year-old youths accused of murdering a Greek Cypriot police informer and setting fire to his body last May were discharged from court today.

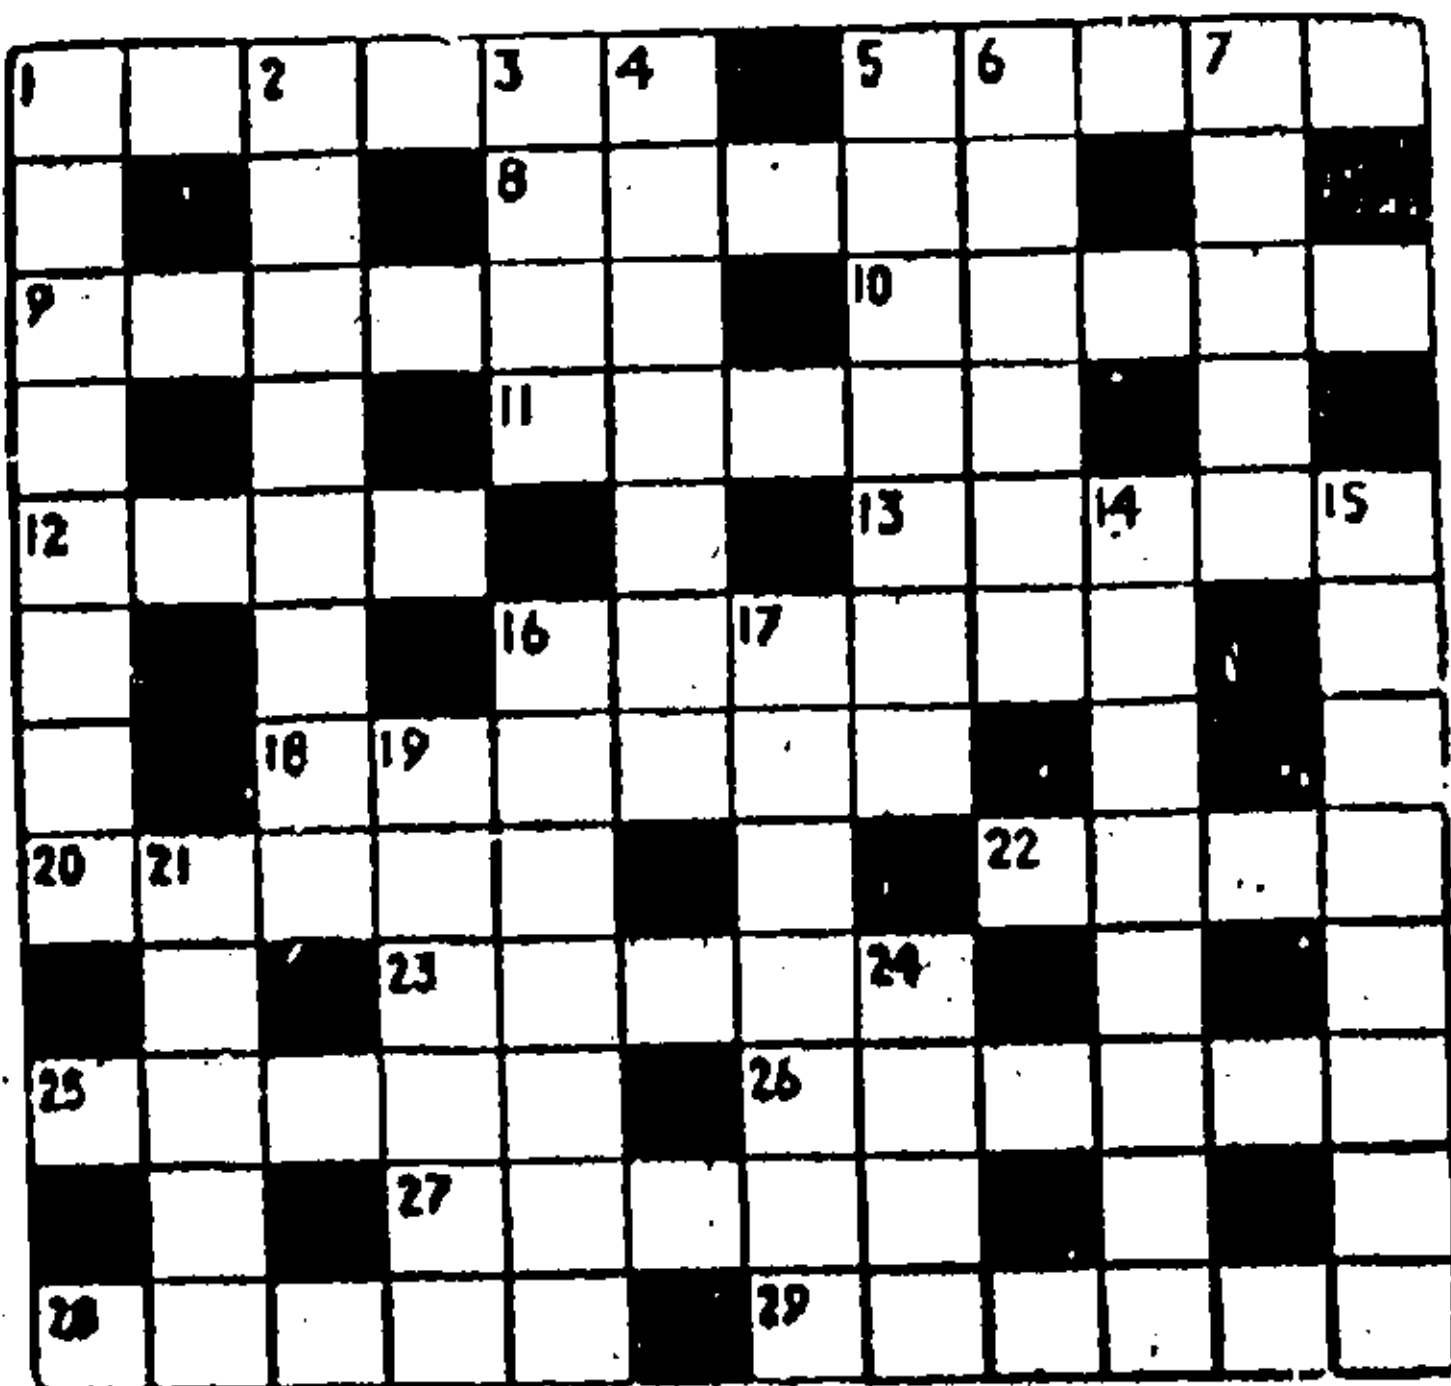

The only evidence against the two accused, Panayis Trimihiotis and Michael Vassiliou, was given by the dead man's wife.

The prosecutor told the court this morning that most of the inhabitants of the murdered man's village of Ayios Anavrosios were involved in the crime.

He said it was not surprising there was only one witness.

The murdered man, Zacharias Karafiotis, was a recognised Police informer who co-operated with the British authorities in their anti-EOKA campaign during the Cyprus emergency.—UPI.

A British Crossword Puzzle

- ACROSS
- 1 Notable rather than notorious (6).
 - 5 It goes to the wall (5).
 - 6 Field work started by the Sappers (5).
 - 9 Not all there (6).
 - 10 Put it round a wedding-cake (5).
 - 11 Common to stable and theatre (5).
 - 12 Sweet but sharp (4).
 - 13 Showed the teeth? (5).
 - 14 Ten years (6).
 - 15 Old sailor (6).
 - 20 Giant (5).
 - 22 Dad repeats himself (4).
 - 23 Taken by progressive men? (6).
 - 26 Social distinction (5).
 - 27 Bird allowed around a pub (6).
 - 28 Reduced the tension (5).
 - 29 Long for (5).
 - 29 Offer to nurse? (6).
- DOWN
- 1 He tootles (8).
 - 2 With which to regard princes? (8).
 - 3 Where the Ashes are kept? (4).
 - 4 Paid up (7).
 - 5 C.P.O. sack (7).
 - 6 In a natural state? (6).
 - 7 Laid to (5).
 - 8 Had another win? (8).
 - 14 Wine holder (8).
 - 15 Like an infernal poet? (7).
 - 16 Two line rhyme (7).
 - 17 Movable holiday (6).
 - 21 Quite ridiculous (5).
 - 24 As a team, it's neither top nor bottom! (4).

YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD—Across: 3—Meed (rev.), 7—Graph, 8—Overs, 9—Lion, 10—Loggia, 12—Shad, 15—Corus, 18—Sunk, 19—Turks, 21—Suits, 22—Dodo, 23—Trend, 24—Rent, 25—Inertia, 30—Safe, 31—Diva, 32—Aa-Kow, 33—Reel, Down: 1—Anon, 2—Apeiro, 4—Eddie, 5—Dona, 6—On-C-9, 9—Lark, 11—Coast, 13—Hero, 14—Dash, 16—S-ton-a, 17—Year, 18—Siza, 20—Address, 22—Dene, 24—Rifle, 25—Miner, 27—Erie, 28—Tear.

CASTRO LEADS CUBANS IN STAGING MASS ANTI-U.S. RALLY

Havana, Oct. 26.
Singing, machete-waving Cubans by the hundreds of thousands streamed to a mass anti-American rally called by Fidel Castro today. The bearded Premier flew over them in a helicopter to urge them on.

Excitement mounted as the crowds surged into the plaza outside the Presidential Palace for an address by Castro which was expected to be a continuation of his bitter TV attack against the United States last Thursday night.

There were no disorders and the city seemed in a holiday mood. Havana radio and TV commentators said one million people—the number Castro had called for—were jammed into the plaza.

Observers doubted, however, that anywhere near that number could squeeze into the plaza.

Banners, flags, pictures of Castro and posters of all sizes and colours waved in the warm air.

E. Germany, Poland Incident Over Map

Berlin, Oct. 26.
An East Berlin crossword newspaper provoked a diplomatic incident between East Germany and Poland recently by publishing a map modifying the Oder-Neisse frontier line to the advantage of East Germany, the West German newspaper Der Kurier reported today.

The crossword newspaper Troll published the inaccurate map on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the East German Democratic Republic. The map incorporated the town of Szczecin (formerly Stettin) and the nearby island of Wolin in East German territory, whereas these are now part of Poland.

Der Kurier said that the Polish Government had made representations on the subject through its Ambassador in East Berlin and a protest note may even have been delivered.

Following the Polish démarche, the editorial staff of Troll had been suspended and East Berlin Police had seized the majority of the editions of the crossword newspaper in news kiosks, Der Kurier added.—AFP.

Calendar Reform Considered

Vatican City, Oct. 26.
The next meeting of the Ecumenical Council of the Catholic Church may take up the support of calendar reform, it was reported here today.

The question of revising the calendar had already been submitted to the League of Nations and an Indian proposal for reform has been put to the United Nations.

The matter is of the greatest interest to the Catholic Church, although this will not be the first time that the Church has dealt with it. The Council of Nicea decided, after long discussion, that Easter should be celebrated each year on the first Sunday after the first full moon following the Spring Equinox.

The reform now being envisaged would lead to the adoption of a calendar in which the days of the week would fall on the same dates in each month.—AFP.

Banners denounced "foreign aggression" and asked "When will the U.S.A. stop bombing Cuba?"

The attitude of the crowd was that the United States has permitted planes to attack Havana. More leaflet-dropping attacks were reported last night in the suburbs.

Castro's "revolutionary hymn" filled the air as thousands sang it, peasants waving their machetes together in time to the music.

As Castro soared a few hundred feet overhead in a helicopter to land at the presidential palace, the crowd shouted and cheered.

"Viva Fidel, Viva Fidel," roared like a wave of sound.—UPI.

Bid To Enter Britain On Forged Passports

London, Oct. 26.
Thirty people who tried to enter Britain with forged Indian passports during the weekend were still in custody today pending a Home Office investigation.

On their first attempt to enter the country they were sent back to Calais, France and returned to Britain again by the French authorities.

Four more were on their way back from France, a Home Office spokesman said today. And they would also be detained.

SEA AND AIR

The people—earlier reports had said there were 30—were officially described as being of "uncertain nationality" and tried to enter by sea at Folkestone or Dover, and by air at Southampton.

They were dressed in Western style but could not speak English.

The Home Office today declined to specify the nature of the irregularities in the passports.—Reuter.

'HAMLET' IN POLAND

Warsaw, Oct. 26.
The sole copy of the original edition of Shakespeare's Hamlet in existence on the Continent of Europe has been found in Wrocław University Library, the Polish Pap news agency reported today.

Of the other six copies known, three are in the British Museum and the remainder in United States.

The edition in question, printed in 1609, is signed "Q 2".

The volume in Wrocław Library, in excellent condition, is bound in white parchment with three other works by writers from the Elizabethan period which are also of considerable bibliographic value.—AFP.

Still Going Strong

Algiers, Oct. 26.
Touat Mohamed Said, 109, walked 93 miles from his tent village of Soummam to Algiers to claim his old age pension, officials said yesterday.

"I wish to enjoy the remainder of my life peacefully, and I need money for that," he was quoted as saying.—UPI.

The spreading waves of sentiment aroused by the case of the Yorkshire bull Brook Mandore, which has been condemned by the Ministry of Agriculture for being "too pretty," have crossed the Atlantic. Mr Norman Bennett, president of the U.S. merchant market in Washington, has asked if he can buy the bull (which cost them 100 guineas). The Ministry of Agriculture last August declared Brook Mandore unfit for breeding because of its cow-like features (and behaviour, as the country saw when it appeared in a TV studio interview the other night). The case has raised a storm of sentiment in Britain. Pictures shows Mrs Titcomb and Brook Mandore.—Express Photo.

Threatening Letters Besiege Wife Of British Bullfighter

London, Oct. 27.
"Poison pen" letters from many parts of Britain are reported to be reaching 32-year-old Jacqueline, the wife of British bullfighter Vincent Hitchcock.

STRICTER BEAUTY CONTEST

Long Beach, Calif., Oct. 26.

The rules for the new Miss International Beauty Congress here will be stricter than those for the old Miss Universe Contest, it was announced today by Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer.

The spectacle will be staged next August.

"Beauty delegates cannot be married," Mr Meinhardt said, "can never have been married and can never have had a marriage annulled. Each beauty delegate attending the Congress must bring with her a sworn affidavit to this effect."

Some of the Miss Universe competitors were divorced with children, and some were disqualified on arrival when it was learned they were still married.

Columbia and El Salvador had recently signed up for the contest, Mr Meinhardt said, bringing the total of countries accepted to 48.

The Miss Universe Contest will continue to be held, but its sponsors have moved it to Miami Beach, Florida.—Reuter.

Anzus Pact Warning On China

Washington, Oct. 26.
The United States, Australia and New Zealand declared today that Communist China's "destructive violence" in Asia and the threat of a "liberating" war against Formosa would continue to pose a serious threat to world peace.

The three countries made the declaration in a communique issued after the one-day Annual Ministerial Council Meeting of the Anzus Pact, a three-nation defensive alliance in the Pacific area.

The meeting was attended by Mr Walter Nash, the New Zealand Prime Minister, Mr Richard G. Casey, the Australian External Affairs Minister, and Mr Christian Herter, the U.S. Secretary of State.—Reuter.

Soviet Intensify Bid To Subvert Western Aides

Washington, Oct. 26.
Russell Langelle, U.S. Security Officer recently ousted from Russia, said today there has been a "noticeable increase" in Soviet attempts to penetrate Western Embassies and subvert their personnel.

Langelle said these attempts go on constantly in Moscow but have increased in intensity in the past six months.

The Soviet Government ordered Langelle out of Russia on charges of espionage hours after five Soviet officials kidnapped him and tried to bribe him into spying against the United States for the Kremlin.

The 37-year-old State Department official, who spent 21 months in Moscow, hinted that Soviet officials have tried to subvert other Embassy personnel.

He told a news conference he believes they picked on him because he had been successful in "frustrating or obstructing" Soviet attempts to spy on the U.S. Embassy.

THWART OPERATIONS

Asked if the United States planned to protect the activity reported by Langelle, State Department Press Officer Lincoln White replied, "This is a fact we're just going to have to live with."

Langelle said "There had been many situations in which I had managed to thwart their operations."

He said some of those attempts involved Vice-President Richard M. Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union, but he did not say what the Russians tried to do in connection with Nixon's trip.

Langelle said it was "obviously" Secret Police who grabbed him as he stepped off a Moscow bus on the way to work, dragged him to a car and took him to a nearby building for the one hour and 45 minutes interrogation.

Puzzle Over Vanishing Mayor

Senlis, France, Oct. 26.
The city of Senlis 50 kilometres (30 miles) north of Paris today was puzzled by the mysterious disappearance of its Mayor, Jean Davidson.

Davidson left the Town Hall last Thursday, telling his secretary he would be back the next day. He has not been seen since then. His car was found near a swimming resort at Borne on the River Oise.

Friends said they knew of no reason why Davidson should voluntarily leave. He was happily married and had five children. He had been Mayor of Senlis for six years.

However some political opponents said he had appeared depressed lately and they recalled that several years ago he had vanished under similar circumstances having made an impromptu trip to Finland.

His family is believed to be of Swedish ancestry.—AFP.

Like Minds

Pollard's Hill, England, Oct. 26.

Youth Club leader Stanley Comber said yesterday nearly all of the boys answered a questionnaire form inquiring into their hobbies and interests by writing: "Jiving and girls."

The girls wrote "Jiving and boys."—UPI.

Mourning Ended

Colombo, Oct. 26.

Thousands of people prayed at the graveside of the late Mr Solomon Bandaranaike in Horagolla near here today as part of nationwide religious ceremonies marking the end of a month's state mourning for the former Premier.—Reuter.

Theory To Produce Superior Race Is Advanced

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 26.
Dr Hermann Muller, a Nobel Prize-winning geneticist, said today that he would advocate seminary breeding to produce a superior human race, at a meeting in Chicago next month.

Dr Muller, who is a faculty member at Indiana University, said he planned to present a 10,000-word report on his project at the University of Chicago's International Celebration next month, marking the anniversary celebration of Darwin's theory of evolution.

Dr Muller said he believed artificial insemination would produce a race with the intelligence of Lincoln, Einstein and Pasteur and suggested two ways it could be achieved.

Women are impregnated with the seeds of superior men. The second was a gradual method in which superior couples could raise more children than they could support and turn them over to others for adoption.

"Those consenting to do this would truly be socially minded," Dr Muller said.

Dr Muller was awarded the Nobel Prize in physiology and medicine in 1946 for the "discovery of the production of mutations by means of X-rays."

International Counterfeit Ring Reported Uncovered

Damascus, Oct. 26.
The Syrian authorities said today they had uncovered a "most dangerous" international counterfeit ring forging $10 notes, American dollars and Turkish, Lebanese and Iraqi currency.

The ring has a branch in Britain, the investigation Bureau in Aleppo said. The forgeries were mainly Turkish notes for 500 lira, US$100 bills, $10 notes, 10 Iraqi dinar notes and 100 Lebanese lira notes. The ring also had branches in Italy, Switzerland and the United States.—Reuter.

ARREST MADE

The Bureau said they had arrested the alleged leader, a Lebanese, Mohammed Umar Sharaqawi, and several others including merchants and money changers.

The ring was working in collaboration with the manager of an unidentified bank in Tripoli, Lebanon, for circulating the counterfeit notes and its headquarters in Tripoli housed the counterfeiting and processing machines, they said.

The Bureau said the forgeries were mainly Turkish notes for 500 lira, US$100 bills, $10 notes, 10 Iraqi dinar notes and 100 Lebanese lira notes. The ring also had branches in Italy, Switzerland and the United States.—Reuter.

16 Bodies Recovered

Istanbul, Oct. 26.
The bodies of 16 people have so far been dug out of houses which collapsed during an earthquake on Sunday night in the Erzurum region in North-eastern Turkey.

More than 400 homes were destroyed, and several villages laid waste by the earthquake.—AFP.

The IDEAL Spot for Your Appointment
Bachelors Lunch $4.00
Special Lunch $6.00

TO-NIGHT
Presenting JOHN WARELL
"CONTINENTAL COCKTAIL FOLLIES" Featuring
PRIMA BALLERINA
NICOLA DRESDEN and ANNA LIRE
and a beautiful girl
GIANCARLO & His Italian Comedol
COCKTAIL LOUNGE
PIANO BAR
LARRY ALLEN
for your service
OPEN TILL 2 A.M.

Jazz and Dope

WILL AMERICAN TENSION DRIVE STAR NAMES TO BRITAIN?

by ROBIN DOUGLAS-HOME

I WOULDN'T be surprised to find some of America's best jazz stars emigrating to England. It won't be because they do so well here on visits . . . but because of the New York police.

Now everybody knows that there are drug addicts among some of the jazz groups playing in America—and it has happened here. More often, bad musicians who think that a shot of dope will turn them into brilliant performers get the rest of the profession a bad name.

But jazz and dope have become associated in too many people's minds, and the mud has stuck. Very firmly in the case of the New York police, apparently.

In New York there has been a succession of unfortunate brushes between the police and top-flight jazz artists. Two involved narcotics and one an ugly fight.

There was BILLIE HOLIDAY. One of the greatest jazz singers ever, she was lying in hospital with serious liver and heart complaints when police invaded her room and charged her with possessing narcotics.

Soon after that she died. The police had previously refused her a work permit because of her past narcotics record, and if an American musician is to make a living at all, he must work in New York.

Struggle

Then there was GERRY MULLIGAN, saxophonist-composer-arranger, probably the greatest individualist of post-war jazz.

He was arrested and gaoled for possessing heroin in 1953, but has since conquered his narcotics habit after a long and tough personal struggle.

He is now a frequent and outspoken advocate of the English system whereby addicts are treated as physically sick rather than criminals.

GERRY MULLIGAN REFORMED BILLIE HOLIDAY DIED MILES DAVIS NO DRUGS

But Mulligan returned to New York from a European tour and failed to report his narcotics record to immigration officials as the law demands. So he is being prosecuted again.

Incident

But the most serious case so far is one which does not involve drugs at all. It is the incident since named "The Slugging of Miles," involving MILES DAVIS, hot-lipped trumpeter.

Davis was playing at Birdland, a famous New York shrine of jazz. One evening he left the club for a breather between sessions and stood outside on the pavement.

A patrolman told him to "move along there."

Davis replied "I work here."

Within seconds Davis and two policemen were scuffling. With blood streaming from head wounds Davis was driven off to gao and his police permit to work was removed.

Davis, like many artists, is known to be arrogant and waspish. And police nerves in New York have been ultra-jittery lately with gang "rumblings" and racial polemics.

But by an extraordinary coincidence there is apparently an uncontroversially impartial account of the whole incident.

An orchestra had been rehearsing in a recording studio opposite Birdland, but the traffic din became so bad that recording was impossible.

So the microphones were stuck out of the windows to record crowd noises when the patrolman approached Davis. The complete brouhaha is now taped.

If the trouble continues, we might get some grand sessions going in London. Davis and Mulligan might even set the feel tapping at the Metropolitan Police Ball.

But perhaps they'd rather not.

—(London Express Service).

"And you stand there asking me to switch you to night-work because your wife snores!"

London Express Service.

LABOUR'S AGONISING REAPPRAISAL: PART TWO OF A POST-DISASTER INQUIRY

I lost my seat —and still I say 'More Socialism'

(BUT DON'T FORGET THE COMMONWEALTH)

ARTHUR BOTTOMLEY

by ARTHUR BOTTOMLEY

THE Labour Party, staggering under a crippling electoral defeat, begins the grand inquest. The following article, by an ex-railwayman who became Secretary for Overseas Trade in a Labour Government, comes down heavily on the side of the "let's-stick-to-Socialism" school. At the last Election Mr Bottomley lost his seat.

publishes it to show the voters who massively rejected the Socialist theories supported by Mr Bottomley that some Labour leaders are still unshaken in their old beliefs.

I BELIEVE it would be disastrous if this Election defeat led the Labour Party to abandon Socialism. There are people today who say that nationalisation and the whole concept of a planned society must somehow be dropped from the party policies. This is nonsense.

The Labour Party must stand for a planned economy. It is the only real alternative to the present unplanned hit-or-miss economy. It is true that at present the hit-or-miss system has produced prosperity. I do not believe this prosperity will continue uninterrupted. We had a financial crisis two years ago and we will have others, I regret to say.

I believe Socialism is the only democratic alternative, and this is a fundamental part of the Labour Party's creed. An electoral set-back cannot change our beliefs.

The voters have not rejected Socialism finally; they have rejected it for the present in a period of prosperity.

No point

The Conservative rallying cry, "You've never had it so good," hypnotised many people. When economic conditions change, so will the public attitude to a planned economy change.

We have heard a great deal about the resurgence of the Liberal Party. In spite of all this they still have only six members in the House of Commons.

I see no point in any negotiation or alliance with the Liberals. The truth is that the Tories and the Liberals reveal very little difference in economic affairs.

Both are opposed to economic controls and planning. Only the Labour Party can offer a genuine alternative.

To quote Nye Bevan, the suggestion that the country would benefit from an alliance between Labour and Liberals is "completely superficial nonsense."

Mistake

I think we made a mistake in directing our attack wholly against the Conservatives in the Election campaign. We should have made clear to our supporters the great difference in principle which divides us from the Liberals, too. That would have cut the Liberal vote down to size.

We must go forward as Socialists. In my view we made an error during the Election of not being Socialist enough.

I do not say that more Socialism would have won us the Election, but a more positively Socialist approach would have strengthened the party.

Failed

Why did we lose? Apart from the question of people "never having it so good," we failed to put over strongly enough our basic beliefs. We must now work hard to convince more people that Socialism is the right way.

I think we made a mistake in making too many bids for favour. A great deal of time, for example, was spent in talking about Labour's pension scheme compared with the Tory scheme. This was not a fundamental issue between the parties.

The basic point is that we have not converted enough people to an understanding that our present capitalist economy is responsible for the bad conditions as well as the good conditions.

One subject which must have a large place in our future thinking as Socialists is the Commonwealth and the Colonies. I have an intense interest in this. This is largely because I want to see the same sort of welfare state in the overseas territories that we now enjoy here.

Challenge

I want to see the same moral and ethical approach which the early Socialists applied in Britain carried to all the sister nations of the Commonwealth. Not one of us should be content so long as there is poverty and squalor there.

This is a great challenge and opportunity for the Labour Party in the future. If we harness our resources properly in Britain, combined with the potential of the Commonwealth, I am sure we can provide a good standard for our own nation and the Commonwealth, too. We must prove how Socialism can do it.

Some people are saying that Labour's link with the trade unions must now be reconsidered after the defeat.

Well, if it is, I hope the result will be that the trade unions take an even greater interest in the political wing of the party than they have in the past.

Indispensable

For example, I would like many more trade unionists to attend Labour Party meetings. I would like trade unionists to make a bigger impact in the House of Commons.

In the past I think there may have been a tendency for the trade unions to send not their very best men into the House. I would like to see better and younger trade unionist MPs.

The trade union movement is indispensable to the Labour Party which it founded, and I cannot believe in any so-called "reform" which would separate the two.

Neither can I believe there would be any sense in changing the name of the party, as has been suggested. Perhaps neither Labour nor Conservative are the most inspiring labels that could have been devised, but they serve their purpose well enough; and a change would make no difference at all.

It is the fundamental principles we stand for which matter. Our task is to push those home, not to fiddle with the name.

—(London Express Service).

"NOW COME OUT AND DO IT!"

World Copyright by arrangement with the Manchester Guardian

Sam White's Paris Newsletter

It's Dior for Garbo —jeans for Brando

Paris. TWO celebrities, well hidden behind dark glasses, have been prominent in Paris during the past few weeks. They are Greta Garbo and Marlon Brando.

Each has been accompanied by his or her Svengali.

Garbo's Svengali is George Schler, the husband of a Hollywood dress designer, who has been her escort for the past eight years.

Brando's is Christian Marquand, a minor French matinee idol, who manages Brando's business and personal affairs in Paris.

To have both of them in town at the same time is a situation which lends itself to the cross accusation of Garbo doing a Brando and Brando doing a Garbo.

There the similarity ends, for whereas Garbo continues to be a star in the highest flight of aristocratic society, Brando is content to be a beatnik among beatniks.

The contrast between the two was made spectacular by the fact that as Garbo was ordering new clothes from Dior, Brando was buying jeans on the Avenue de la Grand Armee.

Vintage year

Here is an up-to-the-minute report on the wine situation as a result of this year's astonishing summer.

Burgundy: undoubtedly the best vintage of the century.

Beaujolais: certainly one of the best years if not the very best year in Beaujolais history.

Alsace: a great year but the wines threaten to be too "fruity."

Rose (Anjou): the strongest wine within living memory—17 to 18 degrees alcoholic content as compared to the normal 13 degrees.

Champagne: the best crop since 1893, 20 p.c. more and 3 degrees stronger.

★ Impresario GILBERT MILLER: "Any blow struck in defence of a woman's reputation leaves a dent in it."

New turn

The tormented life of Mr Huntington Hartford, the American grocery millionaire, has taken a new turn here with his announcement that he is going to establish a replica of St Tropez in the Bahamas.

Mr Huntington Hartford has now tried to get away from groceries by (a) becoming a theatrical promoter; (b) starting an agency for models. The St Tropez venture transferred to the Bahamas is his most ambitious project to date.

He left recently for the island he has bought in the Bahamas where he is starting "the most exclusive club in the world" which will be known as the Paradise Club.

It will have one hotel and one golf course.

It will also have a complete reproduction of the Port of St Tropez, and the entire venture will cost him some 20 million dollars.

—(London Express Service).

Just Arrived — Express Annual 1960

$ 10.00

obtainable from

SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST LTD.
HONGKONG KOWLOON

WOMANSENSE

your CHINA MAIL
horoscope

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27

AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19): You will meet a person of an entirely different social background who will be very helpful to you.

PISCES (February 20-March 20): By showing unusual kindness to a person in distress you will be doing more good than you will ever know.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don't hesitate to take a small gamble which is being offered to you, providing you invest only an amount which you can afford to lose.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your sagging morale will get a big boost from a superior who usually does not commit himself in praise of anybody.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): An unexpected windfall will enable you to take a short holiday, and you ought to make the most of it.

CANCER (June 22-July 21): You will be surprised and pleased to witness the beginning of a romance between two people you know very well.

LEO (July 22-August 21): Be sympathetic to the friend who has committed an error of judgment and is in need of consolation.

VIRGO (August 22-September 22): On meeting a person of influence you will have a few awkward moments, but keep your sense of proportion and the encounter will pass off very pleasantly.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You will have an opportunity to introduce two of your friends to each other and may thus start what could turn out to be a permanent relationship.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Given an opportunity to increase your income, do not spoil your chances by being overconfident but be ready to take the advice of your predecessor.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): Do not talk too freely to someone whose loyalty has not been proven to you, otherwise your confidence may be betrayed.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20): After a short but vivid impression of a friend's visitor, you will be anxious to know that person better.

YOUR LUCKY COLOUR: If this is your birthday, look out for TAN. It ought to bring you luck.

Shirtwaister Is Still A Favourite

Dateline Berlin
from Magda Müller

THE preview of the latest fashions I have seen in Berlin showed that the emphasis is definitely on fabric . . . and the reason is not hard to find. Fabric must be emphasised—because style is so simple.

The wheel has come full circle: German women who have often been shocked by the outrageous seasonal vagaries of fashion have eagerly returned to a basic silhouette.

Both the waist and the bust-line are back where they should be; and their contours are natural; trimmings are few and less busy.

What are the fabrics? They're all of good taste and have eye-appeal. Multi-coloured, lightweight printed wools . . . distinctive weaves with surface interest . . . tweeds, especially the lightweight variety . . . Shetland . . . and all coarse open weave fancy wools.

WOOLLENS DOMINATE

Since the style is so basic—and even lacking-checked wools and classic tartans dominate. Colour and fabric catch the eye every time and exotic styling has no place.

The easy-fit and easy-to-wear styles suit every age. As in every part of the globe, the shirtwaister is still first favourite.

Vests and vestees provide a splash of white in two-pieces and low-fronted dresses; wide, supple belts mark the natural waistline; white comes in again for collars, edging, bow-ties, revers and belts.

Say the store customers: "Thank heavens for simple styles that won't date." Say the store buyers: "The return of the waist, of full skirts as well as slim, and above all of pleats—so comfortable to wear and so kind to the figure—means good sales talk. We've something to sell that women want to buy!"

'NOT ELEGANT'

And while some manufacturers say: "The new styles aren't models . . . they're not even elegant," the wiser manufacturers give in gracefully and concentrate on the good taste of their fabric suppliers.

The simpler the style, the more marked the effect of the fabric, and fashion garment manufacturers are in the ingenious hands of the textile merchants.

As for the woman buying new clothes she is taking her fabric seriously and is beginning to know her wools, her weaves and her colours. For once, it is she who is making the decisions. She makes it known what she wants—and gets it.

LEFT: Young and elegant, this dress is in a classic wool pepita (baby check). The white is picked up by the narrow white trimming at the throat and down the centre front.

CENTRE: Neat shirtwaister with a difference—the tiny white vestee. A full skirt, narrow revers and a tie waist. The fabric: a country-type rough wool cloth in black and white.

RIGHT: What could be more easy fitting than this two-piece blouse dress? The fabric is wool boucle cloth texture, and it supplies the interest. Notice again a vest—this time spotted for contrast.

FOUNDATION FOR FAME

By Gloria Gordon

IT'S the world's most sought-after job. Every woman who has a pretty face and a good figure applies for it. Little girls grow up practising model behaviour so as to become one. The job, of course, is a model's.

You will find model agencies by the score in every big city in the world—and would-be models in their thousands.

Yet there is one line of modelling open to all these girls. Modelling which means good money—better than many ordinary mannequin posts—shorter hours; luxury surroundings; pictures in every magazine.

Few Applicants

And this line of modelling attracts few applicants. Agencies, manufacturers and photographers have to BEG girls to come to them. It's the same everywhere.

What is this line? It's the most important line of all—the foundation line. In every part of the world foundation manufacturers will tell you the same, sad story. "We can't get models for our corsets."

Why do girls turn down the good pay, the short hours, the higher photographic fees, the free travel, the free foundation garments and lingerie?

Husband May Object

There are many reasons. Firstly, boy friends and husbands. No man likes to see photographs of his wife or fiancée "half-dressed."

Secondly, modelling is meant to be a "glamorous" profession. Said one model agency: "What's glamorous about parading around in your underwear?"

Thirdly, an old-fashioned slur on the corset modelling profession. Once it was only done by a certain type of chorus girl—and cheap photographers. But today this is very far from the truth.

What is still true is that once a corset model, always a corset model. Few corset models can land jobs modelling fashion garments—let alone haute couture.

In London corset models are offered up to £40 per week, yet out of 1,000 models, no more than 50 will model foundations.

Fantastic Fees

In New York fees are even more fantastic. Corset models can earn between 70 and 100 dollars an hour—yet only a dozen girls from the three biggest agencies will agree to do this form of modelling. One leading agency even bans its 100 models from foundation modelling!

The most sensible comment on foundation modelling comes from one of these well-paid models herself. She says: "The first time is always embarrassing. After that there's nothing to it. I wear less on the beach than I do in the showroom, anyway!"

JACOBY on BRIDGE

HOW would you play today's hand?

You win the opening club lead with the ace, draw trumps with three leads and play a spade. East is in with the king and plays a club which you trump. Another spade lead knocks out East's ace and the chances are that he leads a diamond.

This is the way that the play went at the Nationals in Chicago and Bill Grieve of New York helped his team to their victory.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
South West North East
2♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
4NT Pass 5♥ Pass
5NT Pass 6♥ Pass

You, South, hold:
♠A ♠K ♠Q ♠J ♠10 ♠9
What do you do?
A—Pass. Your partner could have bid seven himself with two kings and an ace and you should settle for the sure small slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner opens the bidding with two hearts: You, South, hold:
♠K ♠Q ♠J ♠10 ♠9
What do you do?
Answer Tomorrow

NORTH		15
♠ 9 3 2
♥ A 7 8 3
♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ 6 2
WEST	EAST
♠ 8 7 6 5	♠ A K 4
♥ 4	♥ 10 5 2
♦ Q 10 8 3	♦ 6
♣ 8 5 4 3	♣ K Q J 10 8 7
SOUTH (D)
♠ Q J 10
♥ K Q 9 7 6
♠ A K J 2
♣ A
East and West vulnerable
South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♥	3 ♦
4 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♣ 3

by playing absolutely safe for his contract.

He went up with the ace of diamonds, cashed his last spade and led a low diamond from his hand.

This play gave up any chance for an overtrick, since he was automatically conceding a trick to the queen but it constituted a fine insurance policy since no matter how the cards lay he was going to bring home the bacon.

As you can see West won the trick and had to lead. A diamond return would lose but so would any other play.

Christmas Gifts

VERY SOON THE POST OFFICE WILL BE URGING US TO POST EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS.

Here's a suggestion for the junior miss on your list.

"HMMM SMELLS GOOD!" A little girl sniffs hand lotion that's lightly scented. It's a special cosmetic for children.

By JEANNE D'ARCY

LOOKING for stocking stuffers to please little girls? Consider beauty aids especially styled for the younger generation.

For Her Bath

A number of such aids are for bath time. These include pink heart-shaped soap, bubble bath and dusting powder. A bath mitt filled with talcum is also fun to use. Then, for applying after the nightly scrub-up, there's lightly scented cologne.

A delightful hand-care kit comes in a blue-and-silver purse. There are four bottles: remover, pink polish, colourless polish and pink hand lotion. Cuticle cream, an emery board and orange-wood stick are included, as is a comb.

Another set holds a blue-and-white terry mitt filled with dusting powder and bottles of cherry pink bubble bath, pale pink hand lotion, pale green rosemint cologne and toilet water.

Kid-size packets of bubble bath, 3 to a package, are available in four fragrances: carnation, honeysuckle, apple blossom and pine.

For Boys

There are also some good grooming aids for the young man on your list.

Space soaps, shaped like rockets, come two to a package. Hair groomer is a grown-up and good idea for Junior, as is a little leather comb case he can slip in his pocket, providing there's enough room with the marbles, odd bits of string, and other items a boy's apt to carry around.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Big-Hearted King Nep

—He Makes Sure His Fish Are All Well Fed—

By MAX TRELL

KNARF, the Shadow Boy with the Turned-About Name, walked down the hill to the brook. When he reached the spot where the old Willow hung over the water, he stopped and looked around.

He gave a low whistle. Answering Whistle

The next moment there came an answering whistle from the other side of the brook. "Hi!" Knarf shouted. "Where are you, King Nep?" "Over here," answered King Nep's voice. "On the other side! Can't you see me?" Knarf walked carefully on the rocks in the brook. They were moss-covered and slippery. Finally he reached the other side, where a clump of tall cattail stalks fringed the bank.

King Nep's Voice

"Here . . . over here," King Nep's voice kept saying. "Can't you see me yet?" Knarf was in among the cattails now, looking sharply to the right and left. Suddenly he felt a tug on his foot. He looked down quickly. King Nep looked amused. "I've been watching you for half an hour, my boy." "It's because you're so small," Knarf wanted to say. But he kept this thought to himself. He was afraid it might hurt King Nep's feelings.

Mighty Ruler

Years and years and years ago, Little King Nep was the mighty ruler of the Seven Seas. He was known as King Neptune then.

But little by little, folks forgot all about him and the more they forgot about him, the smaller he grew. Right now he was hardly bigger than a large match stick.

"Sh-h! Sh-h!" said King Nep suddenly. "You're talking too loud. You're scaring them away."

Tiny Fishing Rod

Knarf saw now that King Nep was holding a tiny fishing rod in his hand. The fishing rod was made of a twig, and the fishing line was a thread from a Spider's web.

Knarf kept perfectly still. He hardly moved. He kept his eye on the fishing rod.

"There! It's caught!" King Nep suddenly broke the silence by saying in an excited voice.

Watched Eagerly

Knarf looked eagerly. He waited for King Nep to pull a fish out of the water. But when King Nep pulled the fishing line out of the water, Knarf was disappointed to see nothing at the end of the line at all except a little silver cup.

"Oh, that's a shame!" said Knarf. "You didn't catch him

Knarf kept perfectly still while King Nep was fishing.

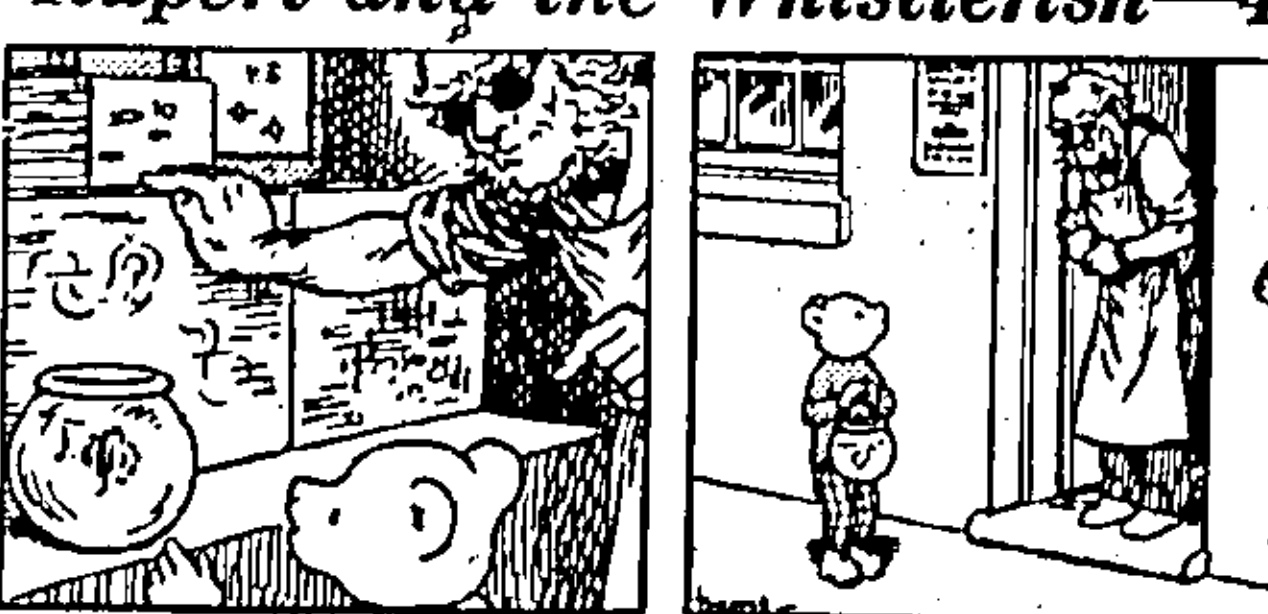

Filled Cup

And with that, still laughing, King Nep filled the silver cup with bits of bread and meat and let it sink slowly into the water again.

"Somebody has got to feed them," he said.

As Knarf walked home, he remembered King Nep, small as

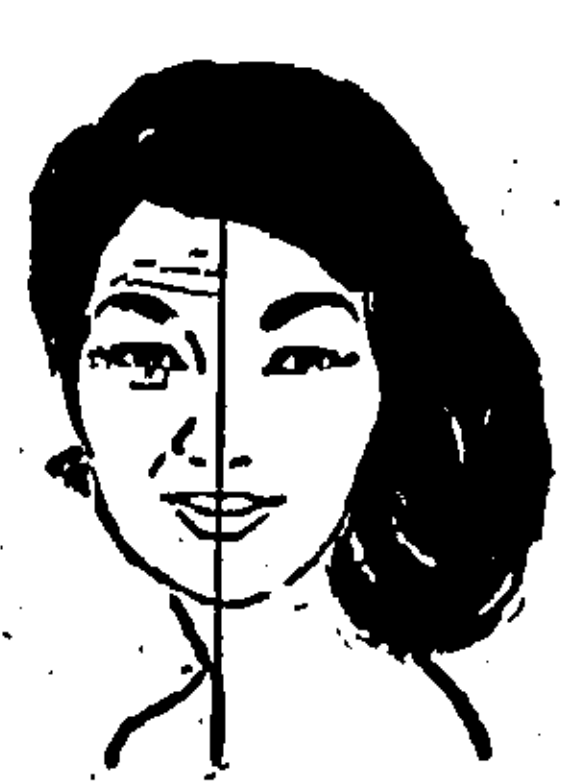

Rupert and the Whistlefish—4

Leading Rupert back into the shop the man shows him a smaller, round bowl with a fish in it. "There, I'll warrant you've never seen one like that before," he says. "Would you like it?" My, yes, I would! exclaims Rupert. "Look how it changes colour as it swims round! But I don't think

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED

Sensational cosmetic discovery!

removes fine lines and wrinkles - tightens and rejuvenates the skin

Use Placentubex on face, neck and hands. Feel it tighten sagging skin! Feel it stretch away those wrinkles, creases and crow's feet! Placentubex gives a veritable face lift - your skin becomes so smooth and youthful.

A tube lasts for months.

Placentubex

The right care and the right treatment will enhance your complexion - use Sevilan Soap, a mild, medicated soap for skin health and beauty.

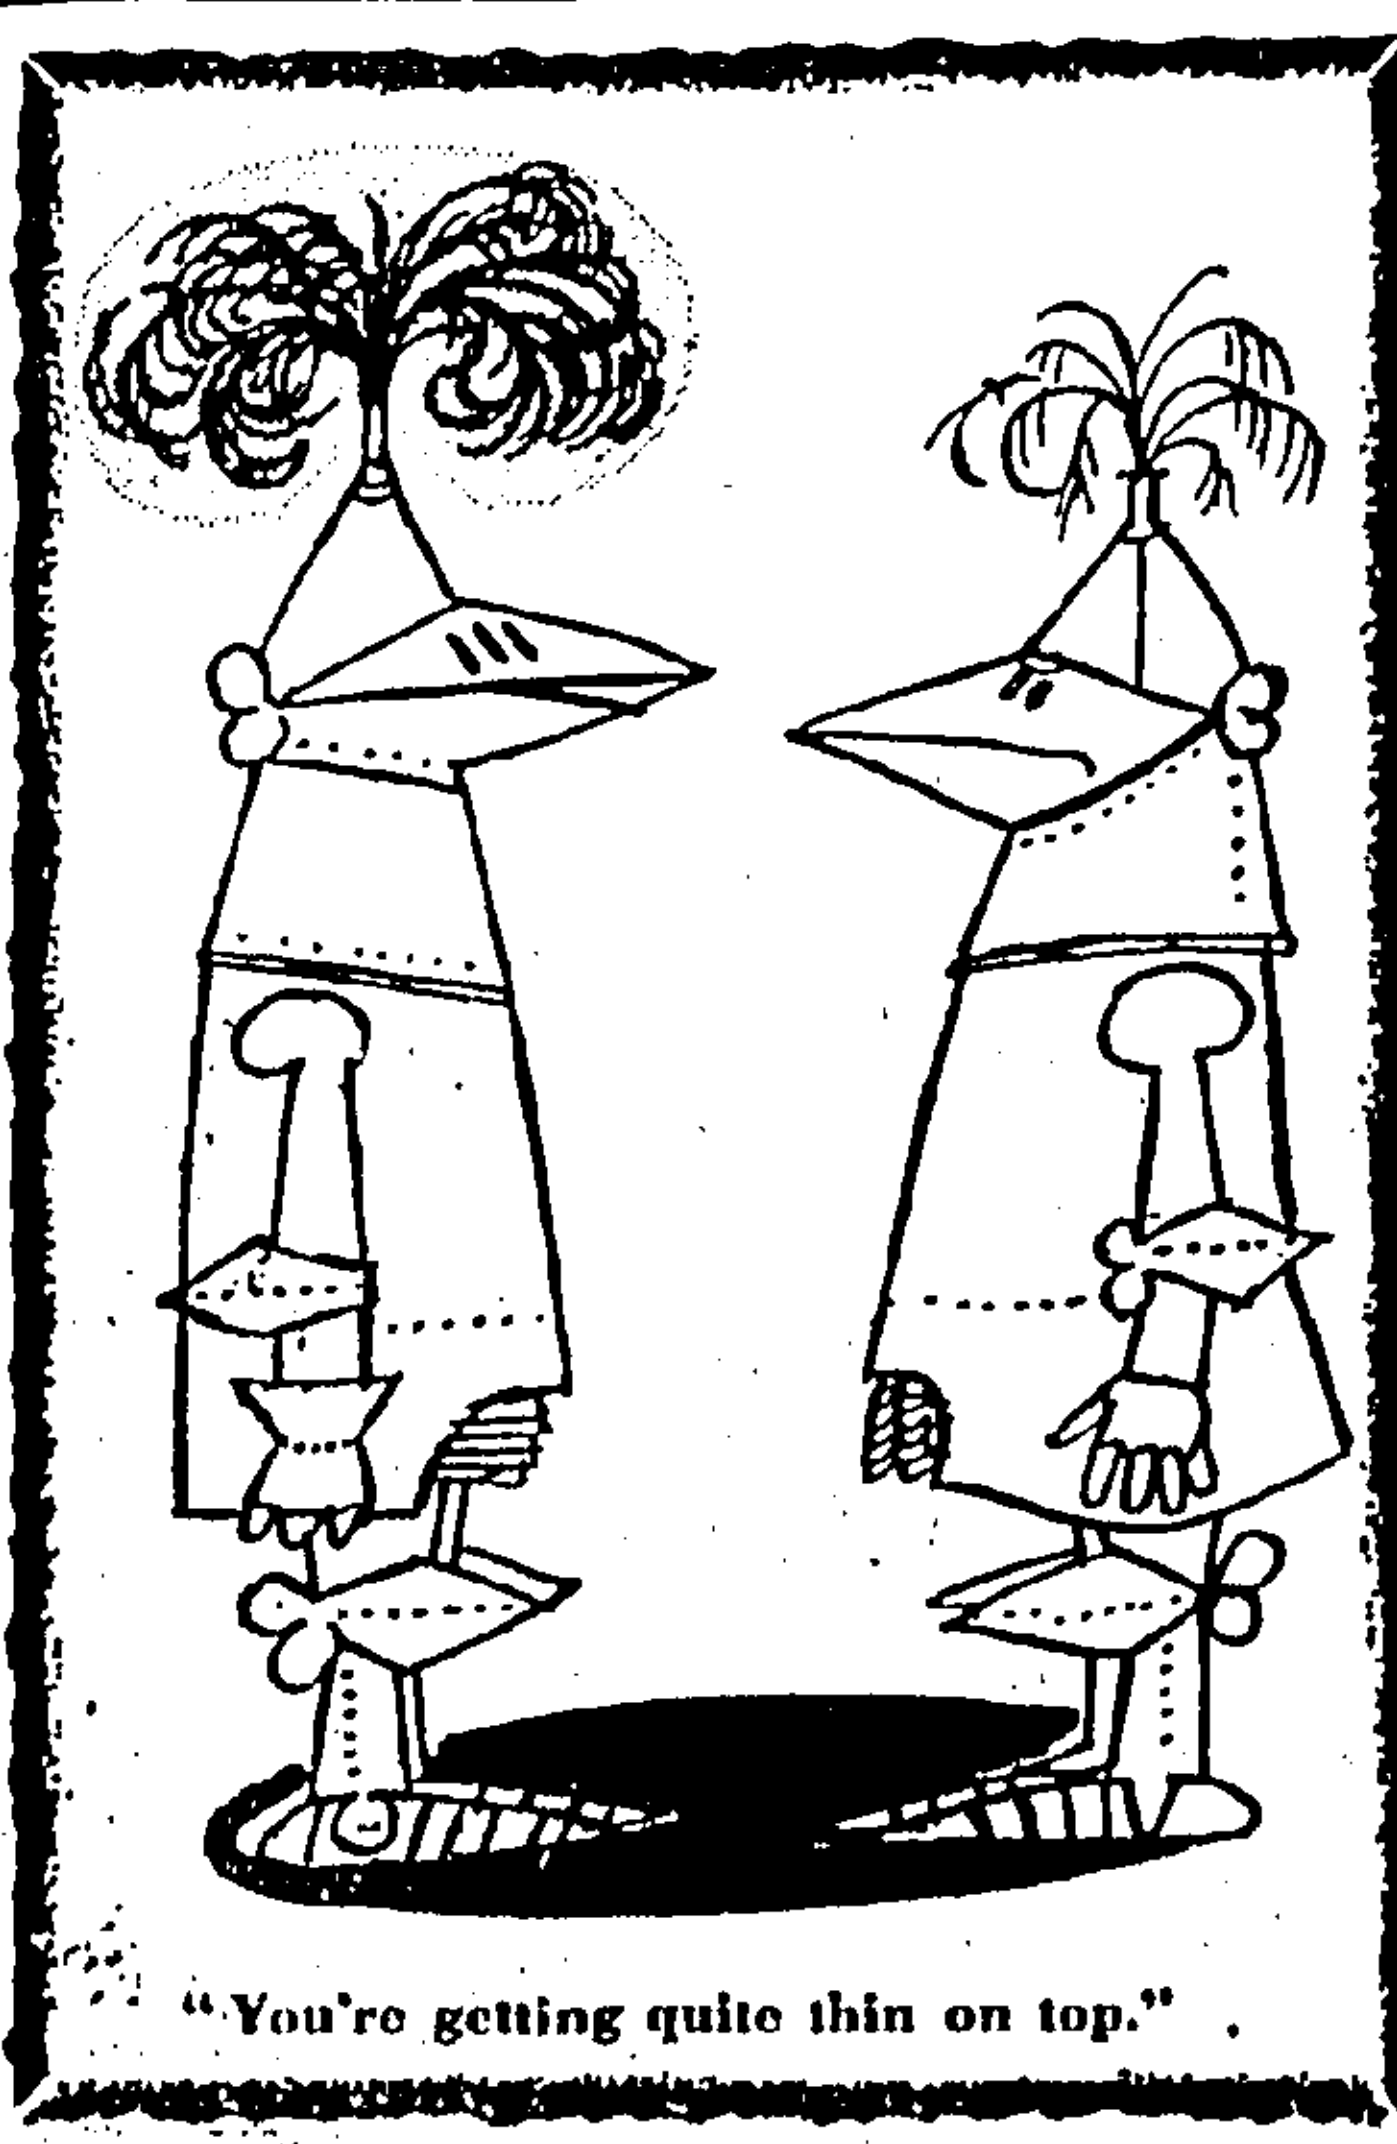

Made in Germany by: Mars & Co. Frankfurt/Main - Germany

Obtainable at all dispensaries and leading stores

Sole Agents:

SHAW, TOMES & CO LTD

Tel. 36856 & 27781

"You're getting quite thin on top."

Sweden's Soccer Team In London

GOOD CHANCE TO BEAT ENGLAND IN TOMORROW'S MATCH SAYS MANAGER

London, Oct. 26.

Sweden's football team to play England at Wembley on Wednesday arrived here today from Stockholm.

A spokesman said the team was as good as that which represented Sweden in the World Cup Final.

"We feel we have a good chance of winning against the England team," he said, stressing that it was the same team that defeated Norway 6-2 on October 18 last.

The team manager, Einar Johansson, however, said he did not want to be over-optimistic.

The plane which brought the Swedish players was delayed one and half hours by headwinds.

The Swedish party was greeted at the airport by Sir Stanley Hous, secretary of the Football Association.

At 1200 GMT tomorrow the team will go to Wembley, for a visit to the stadium and an inspection of the hallowed turf.

Difficult Ground

The coach will then take the Scandinavian party to Fulham's ground at Craven Cottage where at 1430 GMT, in the words of Erik Persson, chairman of the Swedish selection committee, "the boys will do some hammering-up."

"There have been training together for three days in Sweden and do not need any more match practice," Mr. Persson said.

England Likely To Make One Change

London, Oct. 26.

England may be forced to make a change against Sweden on Wednesday afternoon at Wembley, for Ron Flowers, the Wolverhampton Wanderers left-half, is suffering from a leg strain after last Saturday's league match against Preston.

The injury kept him out of this afternoon's practice match at Arsenal. Flowers changed with the rest of the team, and intended to play but at the last moment decided not to risk aggravating the strain. Walter Winterbottom, England team manager, commenting on Flowers' absence, said: "I am quite certain Flowers will be fit and he is completely confident too." However, Flowers still has to undergo tomorrow's training session at Chesham and it is possible that this will renew the trouble.

Substitute

If Flowers had to drop out, his place would almost certainly go to England reserve Maurice Setters of West Bromwich Albion.

If the change proved necessary, it would not weaken the team. On the contrary, it could even strengthen it for "Iron Man" Setters is known for his rugged defence as well as for his attacking ability.

In any case, Setters will be standing by. One substitute is allowed up to the forty-fourth minute, except for the goalkeeper who can be changed at any time, but again only in the event of injury.—A.P.

Leg Broken Again In Same Place

London. Geoffrey Bayliss, Sheffield University rugby captain, sustained a hairline fracture of the left leg when playing against Bradford Salen last February. Playing his first match for the University since then, against St John's Norton College, York, on October 17, he broke the same leg in the same place after 50 minutes' play.—Banews Service.

BEWILDERED—AND BEATEN

Bewilderment shows on the face of British featherweight titleholder Bobby Neill as, with legs flying, he lands on his back in the ring — one of the five times he went down in his sensational first-round defeat by world champion Davey Moore at Wembley, London, last Tuesday. Though Neill put up a brave show, the referee stopped the contest two minutes and 55 seconds after it started. The match had been scheduled for 10 rounds. — Reuterphoto.

Ponsford Gives Up Cricket Post — To Play Bowls

Melbourne, Oct. 26. Former Australian opening batsman Bill Ponsford has resigned as a Victorian State cricket selector — to play bowls.

In a letter to the Victorian Cricket Association, Ponsford explained that he could not give enough time to watching cricket as he was playing pennant bowls for the Melbourne Cricket Club team.

He has been a selector for the past three seasons. The five-man VCA selection committee now shrinks to two. Besides Ponsford, Sam Loxton, and last year's Victorian captain, Colin McDonald, are unavailable, as they will be with the Australian side in Pakistan and India until late January. The two remaining selectors are Mr. Jack Ryder and Mr. Hugh Baring. — China Mail Special.

Faultless Speech Made Top Cambridgeshire Favourite At Callover

London, Oct. 27.

Faultless Speech, with nine stones one pound to carry, closed a firm 8 to 1 favourite tonight at the Victoria Club callover on the Cambridgeshire Handicap, to be run over one mile one furlong at Newmarket on Wednesday. He is being backed to win about £6,000.

Last Thursday he was joint favourite at 9 to 1 with another Epsom horse, Rocky Royale, who now eased to 100 to 8. Sanctum, announced on Sunday as the mount of Doug Smith, joined Macquario on the 10 to 1 mark and was supported to win £8,500. Thames Trader drifted from 100 to 9 to 100 to 7. The Irish horse, Courts Appeal, was backed to win £7,000 and closed at 100 to 7. Guastibus, a 25 to 1 chance, had some support.

Prices

The outsider Panche Calyna had backing to take £8,000 out of the book, closing at 40 to 1, and the 55 to 1 chance, Small

MOST PROMISING TENNIS PLAYERS OF 1959

Karen Hantze May Even Surpass The Feats Of Maureen Connolly

By DEREK JOHN

With all the world's major lawn tennis championships completed I now name my selections of the most promising players of 1959. They are Karen Hantze, a 16-year-old San Diego schoolgirl, and Earl "Butch" Buchholz, an 18-year-old American high schoolboy from St Louis, Missouri.

Karen is the greatest prospect I have seen in women's tennis for years. She may even surpass the feats of Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, who scored a hat-trick of Wimbledon victories. And this belief is shared by "Little Mo" herself. "Karen has everything," says the retired star who was U.S. champion at 10 and Wimbledon champion at 17.

Good Background

Miss Hantze — "Cutie" to the fans — certainly has the background of a future world-beater. Her father, a University lecturer, started to teach her tennis when she was eight. Then she was coached by big-serving Lester Stiefen, a former U.S. Davis Cupper.

And more recently she has been coached by the great Eleanor "Teach" Tennant, the woman behind Wimbledon champions Althea Marble and "Little Mo."

Karen, 5 ft 8 ins tall, sturdy and blonde, plays an all-court game on the pattern of mighty Miss Marble and she is especially strong in service and volleying power.

Youngest Champion

In 1957 she became the youngest U.S. junior champion ever. This year she defeated Angela Mortimer, 1958 Wimbledon runner-up, in the U.S. Championships. "Butch" Buchholz has already established himself in the Hall of Fame — with the unique feat of winning the junior championships of Australia, France, Wimbledon and the United States in one year. At Wimbledon this year he achieved the greatest giant-killing feat by bringing down No. 3 seed Nicola Pietrangeli. "Butch," still rather temperamental, needs only another year's experience to reach the top of the unimpressive ranks of amateur tennis.

Gary Player Now In Australia For Canada Cup

Sydney, Oct. 26. British open golf champion, Gary Player, arrived in Sydney by air from South Africa today.

He was accompanied by his father, Harry, and Harold Hennings, another well-known South African golfer. Player and Hennings are the first of the overseas players to arrive for the Canada Cup to be played at Royal Melbourne next month.

They will represent South Africa in the series. Player said today he may play in the Victorian open which starts on November 4. He plans to be back in South Africa by December 2. — China Mail Special.

Denmark Triumphs In World Yachting

Porto Allegre, Oct. 26. Denmark won the Snipe Class World Yachting Championship here today with 6,897 points. Cuba were second with 6,770, and Japan third with 6,100. Points were based on five races, the sixth race being cancelled owing to lack of wind. — Reuter.

ST PADDY CAN LEAD NEXT DERBY BETTING

Says TOM FORREST

London.

Pinza, Crepello, Hard Ridden . . . they all carried the peacock blue and gold silks of Sir Victor Sassoon to the matchless glory of Derby victory. Now another Sassoon colt — ST PADDY — seems set to be winter favourite for 1960's supreme classic, run at Epsom next June.

St Paddy already has some qualification for leading the market. But he will add the seal of authority if he can end his two-year-old career with the same flourish as Pinza and Crepello . . . success in the Dewhurst Stakes at Newmarket on Thursday.

Just how strong is the mantle of Sir Victor's classic touch? With three winners already — two of them picked up for a song at public auctions — can there really be another waiting for him?

And trainer Noel Murless has shattered all records by winning £144,000 for his patrons this year. It would be an incredible feat if St Paddy led the stable on a comparable prize-winning spree in 1960.

OUTCLASSED

It seems too much to expect the owner-trainer team to keep up their fantastic records. Yet something must be made winter favourite for the Derby — and no other colt appears remotely entitled to the position.

St Paddy won Ascot's Royal Lodge Stakes as if he could have pulled a train and still outclassed the opposition. None but the best will have a hope against the long-reaching, effortless gallop of St Paddy. The prospect of having to take on this full-of-promise young stayer has caused a big slump in the size of the Dewhurst Stakes field.

SIR VICTOR SASSOON
Another Derby victory?

But one who is definitely to stand his ground is Western Sky, who found winning form at Newmarket last time out — and with the guarantee of profound depths of ability still to be exposed.

If Western Sky's performance matches up to his chunky, chestnut good looks, the breeding boy will not stand in his way. It will be most informative to see how he measures up to St Paddy this week.

Compton's XI Beat Combined Transvaal

GRAVENEY GETS 100

Pretoria, Oct. 26.

Set to get 242 runs in 193 minutes to win, Denis Compton's Commonwealth Cricket XI beat a combined Transvaal team by three wickets with eight minutes to spare on the last day of their three-day match here today.

Victory was mainly due to a masterly innings by Tom Gravenev, the England and Gloucestershire batsman, who completed his century with the winning hit—a lofted on drive for four.

Final scores were: Transvaal—332 and 254 for six declared. Commonwealth XI—345 and 242 for seven.

GLOWING STROKES

Gravenev, who scored 88 in the first innings, produced a wide range of glowing strokes against a persistently accurate attack to reach 100 not out in two hours 15 minutes with 13 fours. Australians Ian Craig (57) and Bobby Simpson (38) also showed good form. They lost their wickets trying to force the pace.

Transvaal's second innings was highlighted by a fifth wicket stand of 140 by Peter Carleton (62) and 19-year-old "Tiger" Lence (78).

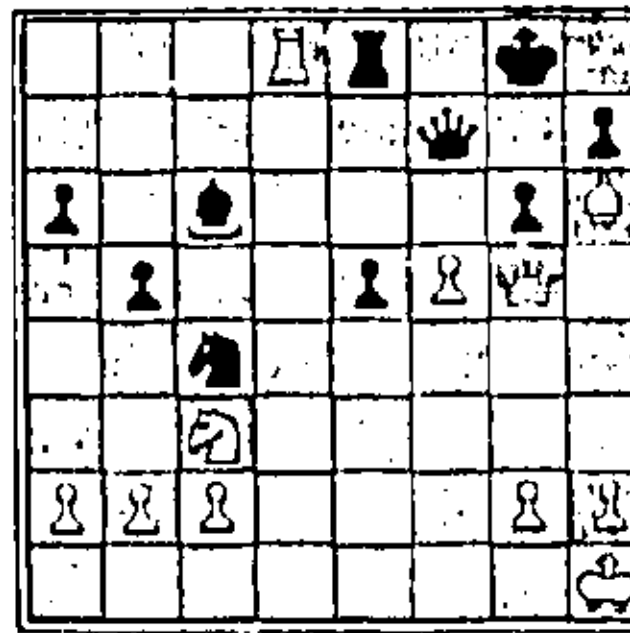

Tomorrow, the tourists play a one-day match against Transvaal Schools in Johannesburg. — Reuter.

Win For Australian Rugby Tourists

London, Oct. 26. The touring Australian Rugby league team beat a combined Hull Kingston Rovers and Hull team by 29 points to nine at Hull tonight. — Reuter.

CHESS

by LEONARD BARDEN

Here is a position from actual play. White to move and win. — London Express Service.

A TRY FOR ENGLAND-WALES

I. D. Currie (England and Wales) goes over the line amongst a rack of players to score a try in the Twickenham Jubilee match between England-Wales and Scotland-Ireland recently. In what was described as a rousing game befitting the occasion the England-Wales team beat Scotland-Ireland by 27 points to 17. — Sport & General photo.

THE GAMBOLS

by Barry Appleby

COOK BETTER MEALS

May Tells Tour Men

'Get Fit'

By FRANK ROSTRON

Peter May, England's cricket captain, has written personal "get fit, please" letters to each of the 14 members of his MCC team to tour the West Indies this winter.

And May is setting them an example by running round the field at the back of his new Cranleigh (Surrey) home every night.

"Up to now I've not felt up to training because of my operation," May told me. "I am asking the team to keep in training with a view to stepping up their preparations next month."

Tour manager Walter Robins, himself a great fitness exponent in his Middlesex and England captaincy days, said:

"Peter is wise to sound this warning because this tour has extra problems, especially for the fast bowlers."

"We must be match fit as soon as we arrive."

"We face not only the problem of going from midwinter to great heat."

HANDICAP

"There is also the handicap of playing our first match against Windward Islands in Grenada on matting and then reverting to grass for only six days' cricket before the first of the six-day Test on January 6 in Barbados."

"We have even had to take into account hurricane and cyclone seasons."

"For instance, because of possible weather disturbances, the dates fixed for the Fourth Test in British Guiana and the fifth in Trinidad are interchangeable."

"The only answer is to arrive fit beforehand and as Peter has suggested, start gently now."

To the rumour-mongers who say May will be too ill to tour, and may even retire soon, I say:

Peter very plainly is back on the job and will win England's first winning cricket leader in the Caribbean.

FA—League Feud Will Come To A Head

By ROY PESKETT

The bitter FA Football League feud, growing every day, is likely to come to a head when representatives of the two bodies who make up the joint committee meet later this month.

The clash will come over a blunt demand by the League that in future all international matches shall take place (in mid-week—and Saturday) be left open for League games.

The FA will fight this, not only for themselves but on behalf of the FA's of Scotland, Ireland, and Wales.

WELSH PLEA

In the case of Wales and Ireland particularly the major portion of their incomes come from international games.

A change from Saturday to mid-week would slash international match takings.

This is what was behind the plea made on Saturday at the pre-international lunch in Cardiff by Mr Milwyn Jenkins, chairman of the Welsh FA.

Sports Diary

TO-DAY

Racing For Third Race Meeting close at noon.

Badminton

Men's "C" Doubles: St. Stephen's v CCC, Heceto v India Club, HKU v St. Stephen's, Nav Bharat v CYMA.

Tennis

Colony Hard Court Club at CRC, 8.30 p.m.

TO-MORROW

Tennis Presentation of prizes at Ladies Recreation Club, 7.30 p.m. Colony Schoolboys Club at CRC, 8.30 p.m.

DOHERTY, DOUBLE-CRISIS MANAGER, ISN'T WORRIED

'My Players Have Been Bitten By A Bug'

It was one of the most extraordinary spectacles I have seen in sport... As the referee's whistle shrilled, the end of the game, a horde of Irish supporters raced wildly across Wembley's sacred turf.

Shouting and cheering, the Celtic wave reached Danny Blanchflower and his men... then, picking them up like green feathers, the half-hysterical fans chaired their heroes off the field...

By

ALAN HOBY

That was two years ago when, for the first time in 20 years, Northern Ireland beat England 3-2.

But amid all the uproar that flamed through Wembley Stadium that afternoon one man passed unnoticed.

That was the grand architect of it all, the fiery tribal leader who had made this sensational victory possible—PETER DOHERTY.

By whatever yardstick you judge him, Doherty is a giant—a personality plus, in tip-top form. As a classic inside forward he was Doherty the Dazzler—a copper-haired genius who won 17 caps, a Cup medal and a League Championship medal.

As team manager of the Northern Irish, he not only pep-talked them into beating England, but he plotted them to the home countries, championship, as well as the World Cup quarter-finals last year.

Finally, as club manager of Doncaster and now Bristol City, Peter Doherty has never ceased to be an inspirational champion of youth—young men like Alick Jeffrey until he so tragically broke a leg.

Today, however, success suddenly seems to have turned sour on Peter. Suddenly, he is in trouble—double trouble.

His club huddles nervously near the foot of Division II, Ireland—the team he built—recently crashed 4-0 to the Scots.

Instead of the summit, Peter now occupies a crisis spot and last week I went to Bristol to find out why.

What did I find? A Doherty depressed, dismayed, despondent?

Not at all. Doherty, a sage-looking, nine-year-old fox terrier from Doherty's native Co. Down—Peter was born in the village of Magherafelt, son of an Irish saddler—wagged his tail politely.

"You can talk in front of him," Doherty went on. "He's my best pal. He often watches City's games with me."

I looked at Rover. Unwaveringly Rover stared right back—and I switched to his master.

What's Wrong?

"What exactly is wrong," Peter asked. "The players have been bitten by the bug."

"The bug?" I repeated. "What bug?"

"Lack of confidence," he said. "It's a disease. A few failures and it creeps and spreads through a club until it is a nightmare."

"You can have all the ability, but if you lose your confidence," Doherty shrugged his shoulders expressively.

"It's the human element. It's unpredictable. You can plot and plan, but it's as Stan Cullis said recently, 'You can't turn this game on and off like a tap.'"

I said: "You've had a fabulous career, Peter. As a footballer you turned out for 14 clubs, either as a regular player or a guest. You also know all about the pitfalls of management. Would you say this is the worst time you have ever had?"

"No," said Doherty. "When I first came here, Bristol City were in just as bad a position. Naturally we are anxious, but we shall rise again—just as Ireland will."

Doherty leaned forward. "You've got to remember that a manager is only as successful as his last game. In the old days a team could take a hiding and it would not be branded a disaster."

"But today success is everything. The public—and Press—are far more critical. I'm not complaining. It's the natural law of change."

Peter Doherty, of course, is a player's man. As a star who, in his own words, was once transferred "like a bale of merchandise," he always has been and always will be.

For, despite his many glittering triumphs, Peter has also known bitter disappointment. The ending of Alick Jeffrey's career upset him far more than people will ever know.

Then there was that flare-up at Doncaster which ended in Doherty—no yapping yes-man—angrily leaving the club for good.

Furious...

Peter was also upset by the harsh life ban which the Football League slapped on John Crossan last season—after the Bristol City boss had signed Crossan from Coleraine. He was furious, but what could he do?

But the bounding 46-year-old Doherty has brushed aside all these setbacks like the lighter he is. For his supreme quality is that he never knows when the battle is lost.

AND THAT'S WHY I BELIEVE HIM WHEN HE SAYS: "DON'T WORRY ABOUT ME—OR BRISTOL. WE'LL BE BACK."

(London Express Service).

TALKING RUGBY

ROY McKELVIE scans the brilliant array of British Rugby talent playing in the recent Twickenham Jubilee match... and from the thirty names picks his—

FOUR IMMORTALS

The score, six all. Time was up, except for those few seconds a referee can add to make up for injury stoppages. England, the British champions, had been without their fly-half, Horrocks-Taylor, for three quarters of the match. They had moved Butterfield up to fly-half and taken Robbins out of the pack to play centre.

A line-out 25 yards from the Australian goal-line offered the barest of chances and those in the West Stand, better than any other spectators in the ground, saw that pasty-faced, often brittle, and always temperamentally artistic England wing, Peter Jackson.

Jackson, virtually shut in by his own side as much as by his opponents, set off on a gyrating course. He linked and side-stepped past Lenihan, full-back Curley, and finally past his despairing but very tough opposite number, Phelps, to score in the corner.

Memorable

Thus England had won by the skin of their teeth, and while nearly 60,000 spectators were still roaring their heads off there was hardly time for the kick. Time was up.

Remember this match? Played on February 1, 1957, between England and Australia, it produced, in my opinion, the most memorable try scored at Twickenham since the war and what must be one of the greatest ever.

Peter Jackson, now 30 and unrecognised as a possible international until he was past 25, is to me one of the men on the field at Twickenham when England and Wales played Scotland and Ireland in the Jubilee match, who will be talked about in another 50 years. Just as now they still talk about Adrian Steep.

Not His Fault

In picking an all-time England XV a good many would give the right-wing position to Jackson, who can run through the eye of a needle and has that phenomenal knack of being able to wrong-foot almost an entire team.

What of the other 29 young men in this Jubilee showpiece? How many will become immortals?

Surely Tony O'Reilly must attain this status.

Only 23, "Red" O'Reilly, 6ft. 2in. and a bit with red, crinkly, curly hair and a magnificent physique, has played 21 times for Ireland.

and his country have not scored a point against England since he has been on the team.

That has not been his fault.

Mike Departed

But in January 1956, in a match, to celebrate Dublin's new Lansdowne road ground, O'Reilly scored two tries and made a third for Ireland and Scotland against England and Wales.

He gave a superb performance of determined running, this time as a centre.

Then there is that great Welsh forward, Rhys Williams, holder of 22 Welsh caps and a likely captain of Wales this year.

Twickenham knows Rhys Williams, to the cost of its participants. He it was who, with Russell Robins, in January 1956, made such a mess of the England forwards in the line-out that the England halves, Jeeps and M. J. K. Smith, were swamped.

Jeeps, the fourth and last of my immortals, survived that tousing. Mike Smith departed from the English side.

Most recently Rhys Williams, sandy-haired and losing some of it, helped the British Lions to win the last Test against New Zealand. The Lions were leading 6-0 and under tremendous pressure.

Rhys Williams won the last six-line-out and New Zealand were held at bay.

They have always argued about Dickie Jeeps at Twickenham. Those who did not see him on tour in South Africa (before he was capped by England) or recently in New Zealand have claimed that this indestructible little fruit farmer from Cambridge was purely defensive.

Desperate

Yet without Jeeps surely England would not have won the championship in 1957 and 1958? And when, in Dublin last year, Jeeps had to replace Stephen Smith, his successor, who got flu, the Irish freely admitted they had lost the match even before it began.

My own great memory of Jeeps will always be the Johannesburg Test between the Lions and Springboks in 1955.

When seven Lions forwards faced eight giant Springboks in the final desperate moments Jeeps did his share, and on one occasion went straight between the legs of Chris Koch and Silly du Rand with the ball.

Ex-Convict Expert At Soccer Laws

London. An ex-convict who passed his refereeing tests while in prison is now controlling local football matches in Derbyshire and is tipped to reach the top. The former Football League match official who tested him said: "He knew the rules better than I did!"—Banews Service.

JEEPS... indestructible opportunist

In South Africa four years ago he was called the world's finest wing three-quarter, and is tipped to reach the top. The former Football League match official who tested him said: "He knew the rules better than I did!"—Banews Service.

ANY FIRM USING THE NAME APPLIED TO OUR "ZORIC"

DRYCLEANING SYSTEM HAS NO CONNECTION WHATSOEVER WITH THE UNDERMENTIONED CO.

PLEASE TELEPHONE DIRECT TO

59195

FOR COLLECTIONS AND DELIVERIES

THE STEAM LAUNDRY CO.

No. 1, Kwong Wa Street, Kowloon.

HONOLULU BAR & RESTAURANT

DRINKS, FOOD, DANCING.

Price—Service Satisfaction—Guaranteed

FROM 11 AM TO 2 AM. Tel. 68348

2, BRISTOL AVENUE 9, KOWLOON (Front of Midway Hotel)

FOUR D. JONES...

by MADDOCKS

FERD'NAND

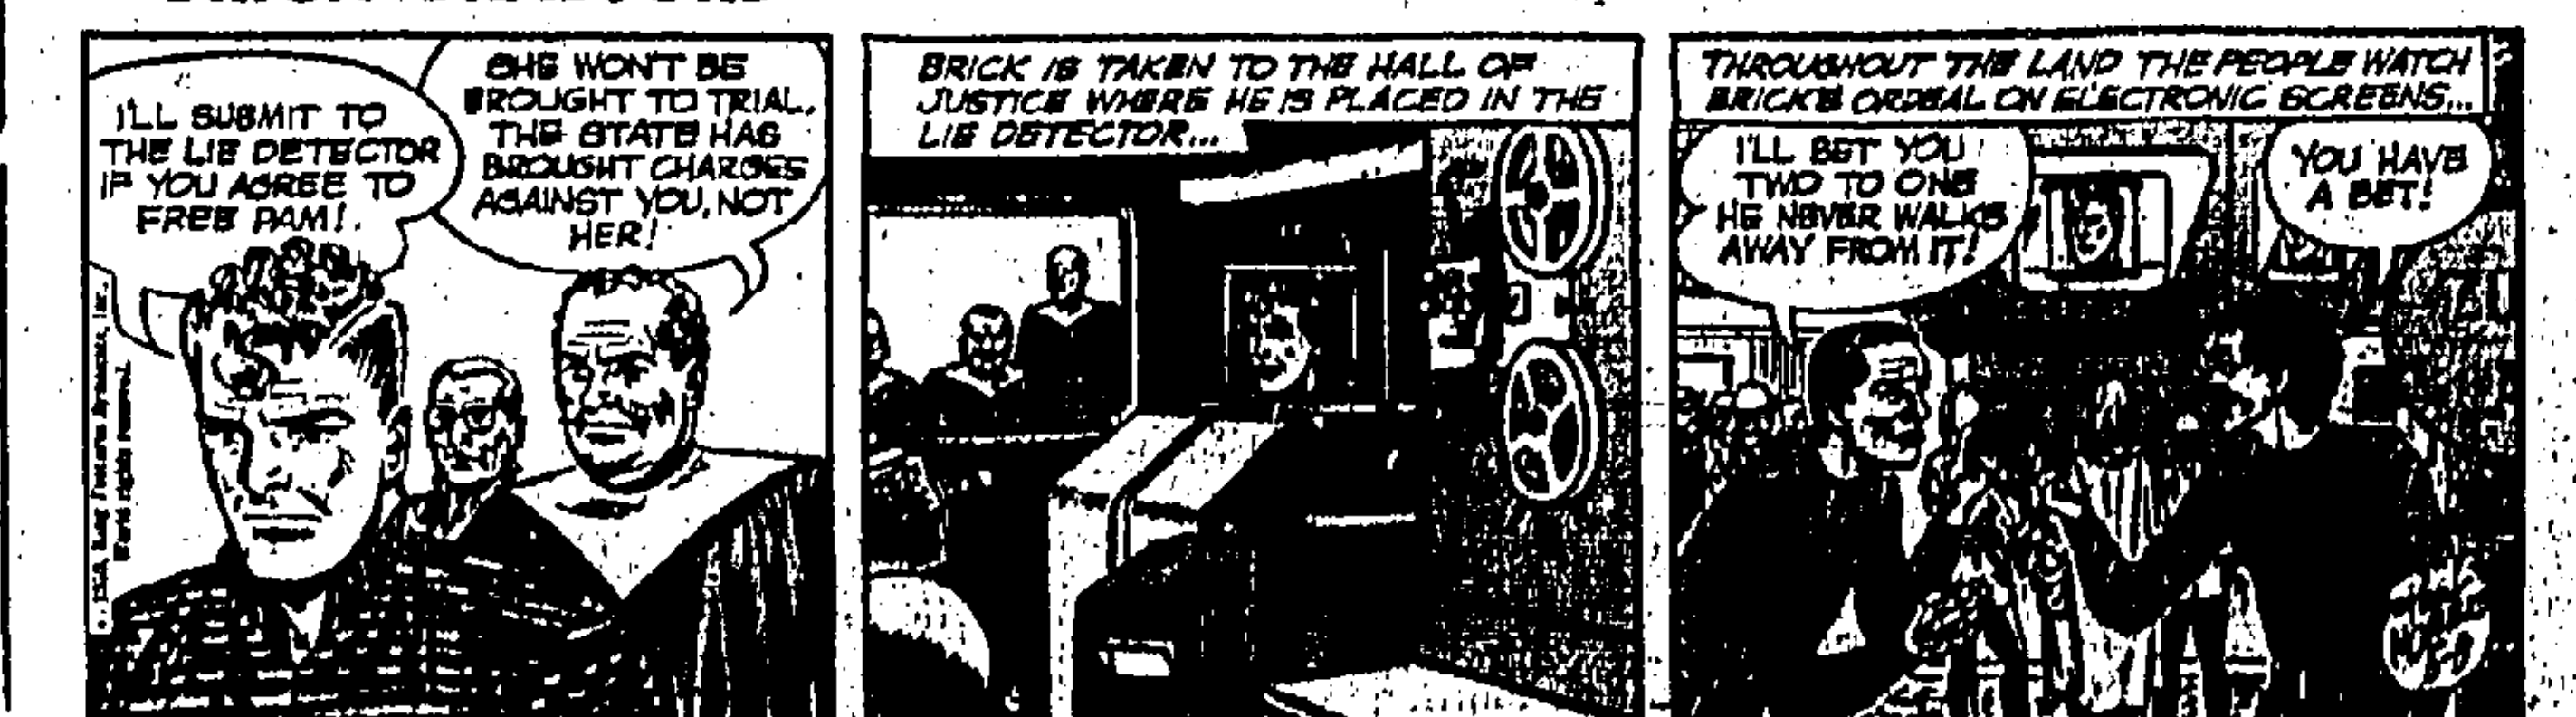

By Milk

NANCY

By Ernie Bushmiller

BRICK BRADFORD

By Paul Norris

CHINA MAIL

HONGKONG
PUBLISHED DAILY (AFTERNOONS)
Price, 20 cents per copy.
Saturdays 30 cents.

Subscription:
Noon Edition
or Late Final Edition
(including Saturday Edition)
$8.00 per month

Postage: China and Macao $3.00 per month, U.K. British Possessions and other countries $7.00 per month.
News contributions always welcome.
Editor, business communications and advertisements to the Secretary, Subscription and newspaper delivery to the Circulation Manager.
Telephone: 26411 (5 lines)

KOWLOON OFFICE:
Sally Road.
Telephone: 64145.

Classified Advertisements

20 WORDS $4.00
for 1 DAY PREPAID

ADDITIONAL INSERTIONS
$2.00 PER DAY

10 cents PER WORD OVER 20

Births, Deaths, Marriages, Personal $5.00 per insertion not exceeding 25 words, 25 cents each additional word.

ALTERNATE INSERTIONS
10% EXTRA

If not prepaid a booking fee of 50 cents is charged.

PREMISES TO LET KOWLOON

FLAT TO LET, 6 Austin Avenue, 3rd floor, 2 bedrooms, sitting/dining, bath, kitchen, servants' room &
W.C., electricity, gas facilities.
Please apply telephone: 10-12 noon, 2-4 p.m. 58335.

WANTED KNOWN

SPOTS? PIMPLES? ESKAMEL concentrate on it. Get a handy tube today! Two tubes available from leading Dispensaries and Stores.

FOR SALE

VE OLDE MILL, A distinctive handmade stationery. In boxes, 50 sheets notepaper, 50 envelopes. Post $5.00 by air, $10.00 by air, $10.00 by box from S. C. M. Post.

NOTICE

THE MERCHANT NAVY OFFICERS' GUILD— HONG KONG

A Special General Meeting of Members will be held at the Guild offices, 5th Floor, Union Building, on Friday,
30th October, 1959 at 12 Noon.

All members in port are requested to attend.

By Order of the Executive,
PERCY NETTLE,
General Secretary and Treasurer.

NOTICE TO CONSIGNEES

"DIOMED"

Damaged cargo on this vessel will be surveyed by Messrs. Wood &
Browne at 10.15 a.m. on October 28
and 29, 1959, and consignees are requested to have their representatives present during the survey.

BUTTERFIELD & SWIRE,
Agents.

Hong Kong, October 27, 1959.

NOTICE TO CONSIGNEES

"DIOMED"

Damaged cargo on this vessel will
be surveyed by Messrs. Wood &
Browne at 10.15 a.m. on October 28
and 29, 1959, and consignees are requested to have their representatives present during the survey.

BUTTERFIELD & SWIRE,
Agents.

Hong Kong, October 27, 1959.

Lane Crawford's

NOTICE TO KOWLOON CUSTOMERS

Our Nathan Road food store is now closed prior to demolition. A full range of food lines are now offered from our 167/169 Prince Edward Road branch.

TELEPHONE ORDERS DIAL

53672 or 58834

Lane Crawford's

CBS To Eliminate All Big Money Shows On TV

The Columbia Broadcasting System—biggest TV network in the U.S.—has announced that all big-money shows will be banned from its TV programmes.

This follows the TV scandal revelations in Washington recently. Big-money winners revealed to a congressional committee that they were coached and helped in TV quiz contests, and in many cases given the answers before they went on the air.

Frank Stanton, president of CBS, made his dramatic announcement in New Orleans the other day.

He told an audience of TV and radio directors from all over America: "Millions of people were duped by what went on behind the scenes in the production of many quiz shows—and so were we."

"We are now convinced that games whose major appeal is the winning of large sums of money or lavishly expensive prizes ought not to be carried on the C.B. television network."

He then gave notice to TV advertisers and sponsors that these shows would be eliminated. This means that big-money quizzes will disappear from the programme schedules of 200 TV stations.

The TV scandal grows and grows. It has been headline news for 10 days. Charles van Doren, "the wizard of Quiz," has been suspended by the other TV giant, the National Broadcasting Company.

AMERICANS swallow more vitamin pills than any other nationality in the world. They spend 340,000,000 dollars ($120,000,000) on them every year. But they spend 10 times as much on tobacco and 20 times as much on alcohol.

EVERYONE here is growing taller, a group of insurance companies has discovered through a survey of 5,000,000 Americans.

MEN are one-and-a-half inches taller than they were a generation ago. They are also heavier.

The survey comes up with dire warnings for fat men.
Twenty-five pounds overweight increases the death risk by 25 per cent. Fifty pounds above the average puts it 50 to 75 per cent higher.

WOMEN have grown only half an inch taller. The average woman is several pounds lighter.

Which may be one reason why they live longer.

THE WIDOW of a Peruvian diplomat, 41-year-old Mrs Urdanivia, awoke to a terrible daylight nightmare in Allentown, Pennsylvania.

She stumbled through her home and found her five children lying dead.

Then she remembered—she had killed them all by mixing sleeping pills with their cough mixture. She faces murder charges.

CHARLES COBURN, the 82-year-old actor, left recently on a secret-destination honeymoon with his bride, 41-year-old Winifred Netzel.

As he climbed into the drivers seat of his 24,000
Cadillac, he said:

"Don't believe that beauty and charm are the exclusive property of youth, my boy.
Like smooth brandy, sex appeal improves with age."

A G.I. has complained to his Senator that his medical sheet is so confused that he has had 10 polio shots instead of the regulation three, and is being lined up for his eleventh.

WHEN an American talks of quaint British licensing laws, reminding him of the liquor laws in Washington. It is illegal to stand in a bar with a drink in your hand. If you want whisky you must sit at a table.
You can't walk across the room with the drink. A waiter must carry it for you.

PAST! Want some Government surplus properties?
The U.S. Government has some pretty unusual items for sale.
They include eight lighthouses, 12 forts, two goals in Alaska, and a 95-mile helium pipeline in Texas.

Perhaps the oddest item of all is an 11,850 ft. tunnel high up in the Rocky Mountains.
The Government built it to drain abandoned mines which were restarted during the war.
Now it's going cheap.

VLADIMIR NABOKOV, author of the novel "Invitation," still unpublished in Britain, but a best seller here, has resigned from Cornell University, where he has been professor of literature for many years.

Mr Nabokov will now devote his time to writing.

A PAINTING bought for 10 dollars (£3 12s.) in a Los Angeles junk shop may turn out to be a 2,000,000 masterpiece by the Italian painter Paolo Veronese. The picture is "Leda and Swan." Veronese painted several on this theme.
One disappeared from Dresden, Germany, at the end of the war.

SEX, as dirty a word on American TV as FIX, drove Mac West off one of the biggest cost-to-cost shows the other night.

The Columbia Broadcasting
System was so scared of Mac
West that it withdrew a filmed interview made in her ornate Hollywood apartment.

"Too hot to handle," moaned
the high-ups.

Out in San Francisco Mac
not looking her 60 years, throatily murmured: "What's all the fuss about, honey? Mr Colling-
wood [C.B.S. interviewer Charles Collingwood] asked the questions and I answered them."

The 15-minute film was shown
to reporters in New York.

One of Collingwood's questions: Didn't her unusual apartment attract unexpected guests?
Said Mac: "Oh, many, many! I had to put two steel doors up.

Amen. Mac West off one of the biggest cost-to-cost shows the other night.

The Columbia Broadcasting
System was so scared of Mac
West that it withdrew a filmed interview made in her ornate Hollywood apartment.

"Too hot to handle," moaned
the high-ups.

Out in San Francisco Mac
not looking her 60 years, throat-
ily murmured: "What's all the fuss about, honey? Mr Colling-
wood [C.B.S. interviewer Charles Collingwood] asked the questions and I answered them."

The 15-minute film was shown
to reporters in New York.

One of Collingwood's questions: Didn't her unusual apartment attract unexpected guests?
Said Mac: "Oh, many, many! I
had to put two steel doors up.

Amen. Mac West off one of the biggest cost-to-cost shows the
other night.

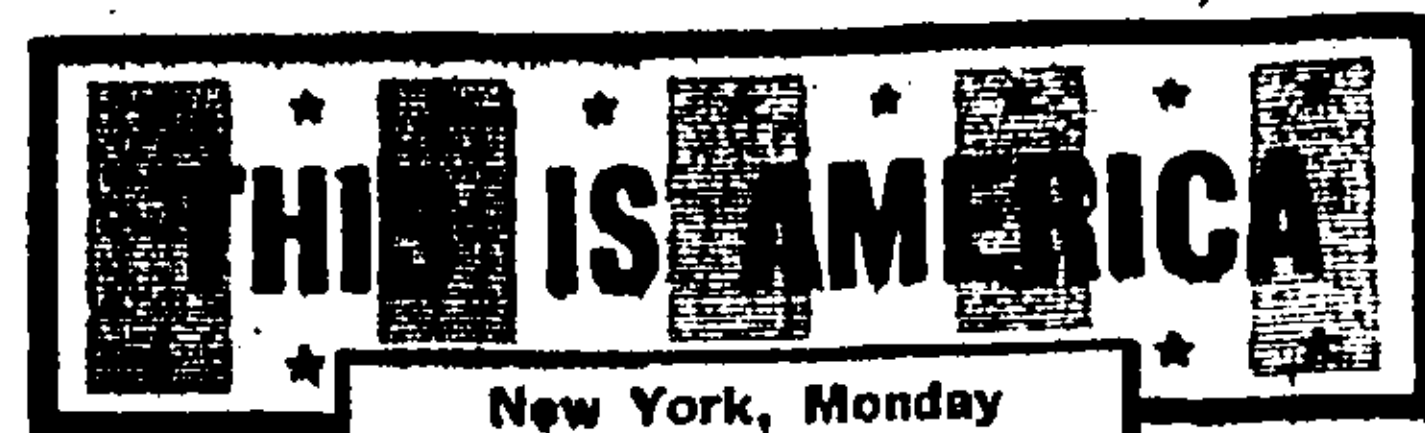

The Columbia Broadcasting
System was so scared of Mac
West that it withdrew a filmed interview made in her ornate Hollywood apartment.

"Too hot to handle," moaned
the high-ups.

Out in San Francisco Mac
not looking her 60 years, throat-
ily murmured: "What's all the fuss about, honey? Mr Colling-
wood [C.B.S. interviewer Charles Collingwood] asked the questions and I answered them."

The 15-minute film was shown
to reporters in New York.

One of Collingwood's questions: Didn't her unusual apartment attract unexpected guests?
Said Mac: "Oh, many, many! I
had to put two steel doors up.

that many of these shows were fixed.

An N.B.C. spokesman said:
"We don't believe that all give-away shows are inherently dishonest, although we were deceptively misled by the rigging of certain quiz shows."

BASEBALL players—unlike British footballers—get a share of their team's winnings.
For the lucky Los Angeles Dodgers, this year's world series champions, it works out at a record $1,200,000 dollars (about 24,000) for each player.

THE MEN who make Westerns have been amusing themselves inventing a "code dictionary" of all that cowboy talk.

Here are some items: Holster
—an aged person. Dry gulch
—a place for hiccup. Hanker-for mooring a boat. Canyon —artillery. Yucca —laughter.
Colt—not hot.

NOTICE on a New York college board listed "a course in accounting for women." And some very tall, wrote under it: "There's no accounting for women."

LAJEAN GUYE was the 27-year-old film find of star-turned-producer John Wayne—and today Wayne was subpoenaed as a witness at the trial of her film-extra friend Chester Harvey Smith, accused of killing her.

But reporters at the court were barred from the public at Brackleyville, Texas. The county prosecutor said this was because of Wayne and the five men, including Smith, who had lived in the same house with LaJean.

In a white, 100-year-old courthouse in the rural town of Chelsea, Vermont, recently a gun-chewing school janitor, 45-year-old Robert Welch, was cleared of murder.

The judge directed the jury to acquit him on the charge of killing Orville A.
Gibson, a prosperous farmer and "the meanest man in town."

A conspiracy of silence has reigned in Chelsea (pop. 1,600) since the bright March day 19 months ago when Gibson's body was found in the thawing Connecticut River. He was bound hand and foot.

He had been strangled before being thrown in the water.
These facts are also known—and there must be a cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

It Was The Same 4,000 Years Ago

New York, Oct. 26.
Apparently Atherosclerosis—that's hardening of the arteries—is not a new disease brought on by the bustle of this modern age.

The Egyptians, it seems, had a word for it.

A scientist has pointed out to his colleagues, who are in conspicuous disagreement as to just what hardens arteries, that over 4,000 years ago, mummy arteries were hardening as they aged, and some men were kneeling over from heart attacks.

Prof Walter L. Bruchet of the University of Indiana called their attention to an etching on the tomb of one "Sesi," who was an Egyptian nobleman of the sixth dynasty, 2625-2475
B.C. The etching is in two parts.

The top part depicts a man who is limp and collapsed, amidst his grieving servants.
The bottom part depicts a zorroing woman supported by her hand maidens. (Female priests don't hideen at the rate male arteries do, and the women of this age, at least, generally live longer than their men.)

LONG, LONG AGO

"This ancient Egyptian scene is not unlike the tragedy that one encounters in present days, when someone drops dead of a heart attack." The physician of today has almost no other choice than to certify the cause of such a death as due to coronary occlusion (a block in a "hardened" heart artery).

There is a lot of other evidence that artery-hardening has been afflicting males as they age for a long, long time.
There was Menephtah who was Pharaoh from approximately 1280-1211 B.C., the time when the Hebrews escaped from Egypt.

The main heart artery taken from his mummified body showed "advanced atherosclerosis with extensive depositions of calcium phosphate."

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

There is no clue as to the
cause or causes of hardened
arteries in very ancient times,
of course, and Dr Bruchet
offered no opinion of the cause
or causes in this age. However,
the idea is inescapable that men
haven't changed a great deal as
regards their hearts and arteries
over a period of 4,000 years—
U.P.I.

</

BRITAIN'S DOLLAR GAINS

HONGKONG STOCK EXCHANGE

by
Our Own Correspondent

Business done at the Hongkong Stock Exchange this morning amounted to approximately $1,000,000. Noon quotations and the morning's transactions:

Shares Buyers Sellers Sales
H.K. Bank 1000 1050 2 1000

INSURANCES
Union 87 1000 4 87

Underwriters
Waterfront 25.00 20 200 5 7

Wheelock 6.95 7.05 200 5 7

K. Wharf 121 123 100 121

Do. 561 571 200 1143

Provident 14.90 15 200 14.90

Taikeo Dock 25 27 200 25

LAND, ETC.
H.K. Hotel 33 33 200 33

H.K. Land 30 31 200 30

Humphreys 10.70 10.80 200 10.70

Really 1.70 1.72 200 1.70

RUMIETR 3.65 3.70 200 3.65

TRIN 4.22 4.25 200 4.22

UTILITIES
Tram 32 32 200 32

Star Ferry 134 135 200 134

Yammat 128 129 200 128

C Light 20.40 20.5 200 20.40

Electric 25.60 25.80 200 25.60

Electric 14.40 14.50 200 14.40

Telephone 31 31 200 31

Cement 37 37 200 37

Dairy 21.10 21.30 200 21.10

Watson 24 24 200 24

Lane 24.80 24.90 200 24.80

Textiles 7.70 7.75 200 7.70

Nanyang 15.80 15.90 200 15.80

Int. 4.00 4.00 200 4.00

H.K. & F.E. 12.20 12.20 200 12.20

New York Cotton Market

New York, Oct. 26.
Cotton futures today ruled quiet with prices showing minor changes on either side of the previous close.

A limit interest shown in the nearby months involved routine trading orders with scattered hedging and local offerings supplying the demand. Closing on a note of weakness the list showed net losses of one to six points. The market opened off two to two points. New Orleans closed up one to off eight points.

Traders found little in the news concerning the crop situation or the usual run of price-shaping factors to generate new market interest.

The Liverpool market closed unchanged to 15 English points higher but 018 to 744 American points under New York futures. Reports said textiles mills last week continued to buy spot cotton for nearby shipment, but with very little interest shown for shipment beyond December. Medium and lower grades continued to sell well, but offerings continued to be slow movers, the report added.

The certificated stock today declined 16 bales to 2,903 bales.—UPI.

U.S. Exports Rise Sharply

Washington, Oct. 26.
U.S. exports rose sharply in September, the Commerce Department reported today. Excluding military shipments, exports totalled $1,427,000,000, up 10 per cent from August and 10 per cent from September, 1958.

It was the fourth straight month exports exceeded year-ago levels. This bolstered official hopes that American sales abroad are recovering from a slump. Higher exports would cut down the U.S. deficit in its international accounts and reduce the outflow of gold and dollars.—UPI.

Convertibility Of Pound Sterling Helps

London, Oct. 26.
Since the General Election the Bank of England's gains of dollars and other foreign exchange have probably been useful rather than massive, partly because Holland and some other European countries as well as Canada and the United States have been bidding high interest rates to attract money, but mainly because there is no post-election reversal of a pre-election outflow—contrary to almost all expectations there was no such outflow.

Sterling's undertone remains firm. However long it takes, the trend seems to be towards full convertibility of sterling—on capital as well as current account and for residents as well as non-residents.

Tall Order

At a time when, with some dollar discriminations still in force, sterling is not yet fully convertible for residents on current account, freeing of capital exports sounds like a tall order. Yet it seems to be on the way.

The recent de-control of tourist spending was accompanied by a token ceiling to prevent unauthorised capital exports by tourists.

While still bothering about this chicken-feed, the Bank of England has calmly allotted a large sum of dollars for British joint ownership in building a New York skyscraper.

It can well afford the dollars and—in the United States—this project is the biggest thing item of sterling convertibility on capital account since the war.

Like all other exchange controls, the restraints on capital exports doubtless keeps out more than it keeps in.

At least one prominent New York banker advises the United States to stop encouraging capital export, but not to restrain them.

A main reason why the United States can do without such a restraint is because Britain has one.

The flow of American money into British shares might be much larger if it were not deterred by fears of a bigger discount on switch sterling, if it ever wanted to repatriate.

This psychological argument could easily be reversed. If the Americans became convinced that Britain will have to follow Germany in de-controlling capital exports (which would imply switch sterling with the official rate) they might expect to get into British shares at the discount exchange rate if they are quick enough, and if they get out if they want to at the guaranteed exchange rate.

Meanwhile, the London Stock Exchange does not need more foreign money. It is booming quite fast enough.

On international comparison, British shares still seem undervalued on earnings, yields and cash flow (though there is now an argument that they are relatively dear on dividend yields).

Until the under-valuation disappears, it provides a rational case for retaining the ostensible restraint on capital exports, which has in fact almost certainly become a restraint on capital import into portfolio investments.

A better way to prevent foreigners buying up the country for a song is to stop quoting it at a song.

As the index of London blue chips has nearly doubled since February, some progress has been made to that end.—China Mail Special.

Exchange Rates

Business was done in the local unimpaired exchange market this morning at the following rates:
U.S. dollars (per £) 15.27
Sterling notes (per £) 15.27
Australian notes (per £) 15.27
New Zealand notes (per £) 15.27
Singapore (Straits) 1.75

London Closes Mixed

London, Oct. 26.
The stock market closed mixed today on fairly active trading.

Gains and losses were generally equally distributed in the Industrial list. Engineering and electrical equipment shares were firm, but shipping stocks weakened again and motor, breweries and stores were irregular.

Gold stocks improved on institutional buying. Copper and tin finished with net gains.

Oils were undecided in quiet trading.

Foreign bonds were quietly unchanged.

Dollar stocks were firm.—UPI.

Closing Prices

British Bank 100 105 1000 100

Consols 2 1/2 2 1/2 100 2 1/2

Conversion Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

Funding Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

War Loan 3 1/2 3 1/2 100 3 1/2

NY Advances On Possible Break In Steel Strike

New York, Oct. 26.
Stocks advanced today when indications pointed to a break in the steel contract negotiations that might bring a separate agreement between the Union and Kaiser Steel.

The market started the day with a rush that sent volume to a new high since April 3. It continued large through the session. Prices moved higher. Steels were strong but the best showing price-advance was made in the electrical issues which continued the advance of a statement that the administration will seek an increase in appropriations for the space programme.

Gains ranged to $5 a share of more in a long list of issues. Polaroid soared nearly $8. Ampex rose more than $7 a share and gains of more than $6 appeared in Ligon and Texas Instruments in the electronics. Brunswick Bulk gained $6 in the special. U.S. Gypsum rose $3 in the building group.

MOTORS UP

American Motors showed a gain of $5 in the day in its section. Studebaker-Packard issues ruled active and at new highs in the motors along with American.

Studebaker-Packard ran up a large volume to lead the market in turnover and set a new high on a rise of more than a point. Others of the Studebaker group set new tops with the preferred up 25 points.

Standard led the oils in volume along with Sunoco. Midcontinent and rose on higher earnings. Chemicals, rails, steels, coppers and tyres joined the upturn.

Republic Steel and Youngstown Steel and Tube rose more than two points each while others of the steel section gained fractions to more than a point.

Coppers had gains of more than a point in American Smelting Anaconda and Kennecott.

Today's volume was 3,560,000 shares. Of a total 1,224 shares traded, 658 were higher and 354 lower. American Exchange volume was 1,120,000 shares.

Bonds volume amounted to $5,790,000.

Closing Prices

Abtahi Pwr. & Paper 37 1/2

Allied Chemicals 11 1/2

Allied Mills Inc. 45 1/2

Allis Chalmers 47 1/2

Am. Brake Shoe 47 1/2

American Cable & Radio 47 1/2

American Cyanamid Co. 57 1/2

American Steel Corp. 57 1/2

Am. Gas & Electric 42 1/2

Am. Home Prod. 164 1/2

Am. Mach. & Foundry 164 1/2

American Metal 20 1/2

Am. Natural Gas 57 1/2

American Smelting 57 1/2

Am. Sugar Ref. 20 1/2

American Tobacco 114 1/2

Anaconda Copper 61 1/2

Armour 32 1/2

Atlantic Coast 32 1/2

Baldwin-Lima-Ham 10 1/2

Blanket Corp. 108 1/2

No. 1 pipe 120 1/2

Closing prices all in pence per lb.

No. 1 rice 34-34 1/2

Settlement house term 30-32 1/2

Oct/Dec 30-32 1/2

Jan/March 30-32 1/2

April/June 30-32 1/2

July/Sept 30-32 1/2

Oct/Dec 30-32 1/2

General market, C.I.F. basis, ports 30-32 1/2

Unquoted 30-32 1/2

Oct/Dec 30-32 1/2

Nov/Jan 30-32 1/2

Dec/Jan 30-32 1/2

Jan/Feb 30-32 1/2

Feb/March 30-32 1/2

March/April 30-32 1/2

April/May 30-32 1/2

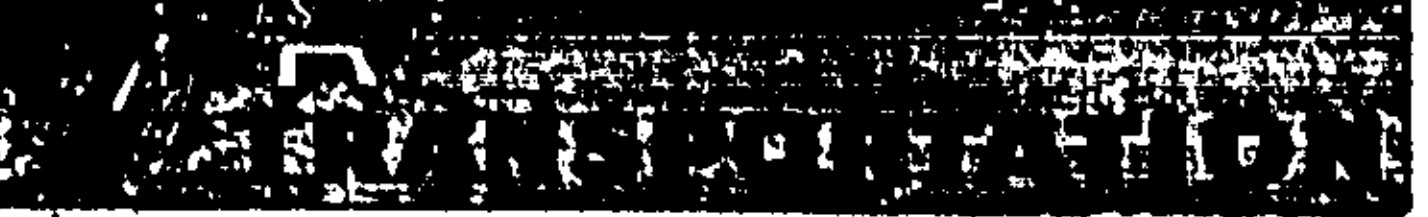

May/June 30-32 1/2

June/July 30-32 1/2

July/Aug 30-32 1/2

Aug/Sept 30-32 1/2

Sept/Oct 30-32 1/2

Test Tank For Nuclear Ships Of The Future

MODELS of nuclear-powered ships of the future will be tested in a new experimental tank just completed in Britain.

In the past, the tests in rough water in existing tanks have been confined to head-on and stern-on regular seas. With the demand for higher ship speeds, and the advent of nuclear power with its high initial cost, it is essential to ensure that the new ships must be able to maintain high speeds at sea under all weather conditions, good or bad. It is therefore necessary to be able to make model experiments in waves at all angles to the models' course and the irregular seas. These can be done in the new tank, using remotely-controlled models, and considerable ingenuity is going into the design of the necessary control and recording equipment which must be kept as light and compact as possible consistent with reliability.

LABORATORY

The tank is part of Britain's new Ship Hydrodynamics Laboratory which also comprises a towing tank 1,200 ft. long, 48 ft. wide and 25 ft. deep, in which models of projected submarine tankers and cargo ships could be tested; a water tunnel with a measuring section 44 inches in diameter; a vibration laboratory; and a series of laboratories for development, testing and calibration.

These new and up to date facilities for hydrodynamics research and development, designed to reproduce in the laboratory more nearly realistic sea conditions than has been possible in the past, will be at the service of British shipbuilding. Their use should result in even higher standards of performance and reliability on the high seas.

Reactor Vessel Passes Test

PRESSURE tests were recently completed on the number one reactor pressure vessel at Berkeley Nuclear Power Station, Gloucestershire. It is the world's largest reactor pressure vessel ever to be stress relieved. Faced with the mammoth task of heat treating one operation a mild steel vessel weighing 1,000 tons, a Surrey firm installed equipment requiring a 2 1/2 MW power supply.

The reactor vessel, 80 ft. high, 50 ft. in diameter and having a capacity of 142,000 cu. ft. was erected on site from sections of 3 in. and 4 in. thick mild steel plates. The vessel involved 2,500 feet of welds. In the top and bottom domes of the vessel there are large diameter ports for the circulation of the gas to be heated by the reactor and other openings in the top dome for the operation and control of the nuclear plant. Inside the vessel, the huge steel diaphragm for the support of the nuclear unit weighs 105 tons.

HEATING

The heating of this vessel presented many problems apart from determining the power required and the method of its distribution to obtain uniform heating. Allowances had to be made for change in the shape and size of the vessel because of increased temperature. Accurate temperature measurement and control were essential at a position remote from the vessel. The heaters had to be installed in a humid atmosphere caused by the setting concrete of the outer biological shield.

JOHN HASTIE & CO., LTD.
SHIPS' STEERING GEAR.

ENGINEERING EQUIPMENT CO., LTD.
208 Chartered Bank Building. Tel. 27789

CHINA MAIL

Page 10

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1959.

SHEAFFER'S

ADMIRAL SNORKEL PEN

"L" DRIVER IN THREE ACCIDENTS,

BROKE 5 LAWS

Ends Up In Radio Shop Window

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Imbeciles?

Sir,—Hats off to the music critics of both the South China Morning Post and The China Mail who, despite the magnitude and fame of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, were brave enough to speak up and something which has been foremost in the minds of most of us who attended that concert and those of other visiting artists recently. The Programme selection! Unless one knows who is responsible for the choice of programme it is hard to put the blame on anyone's shoulders. But are we forever to be treated like musical imbeciles, like musical ignoramus, like children just about being taught their first introduction to music? Every single visiting musical body plays "down to us". Such pieces like the Fledermaus Overture and the Emperor's Waltz can be performed very adequately, even nicely, by our own Hongkong Concert Orchestra and we have to pay only $5 to hear them. But for the price that we paid to hear music worthy of that Orchestra, music that they would play to an audience in Europe, not Waltzes, more Waltzes and the most common of all Austrian marches as an encore. We were given to understand that the Orchestra's tour was under the auspices of the Austrian Government, surely culture and real music were the thoughts behind it.

It is quite obvious that music lovers only were going to pay the price of the tickets for this concert, and music lovers, of which there are numerous in this town, have tastes more mature than what was served up to them. When will the promoters of music in this Colony ever let visiting artists know in advance that Hongkong's standard of musical education and knowledge is high, that the so-called "native" population, the Chinese, know as much about music and love it as much as European connoisseurs and above all that Hongkong is a civilised, cultured, mature place, with its own Concert Orchestra for Waltzes and even a Symphony orchestra for minor works. The musical fare recently dished out to us by visitors such as the Vienna Philharmonic and Jan Peerce (whose selection was not worth listening to by an adult music lover who came to hear an Opera singer) was such that I feel it is high time we musically minded (and prepared to pay for it) residents went on strike and demanded that promoters in future publish the intended programme before placing tickets on sale.

DISGUSTED (VIENNESE)
HONGKONG RESIDENT

A young Chinese woman learner-driver who borrowed a friend's car without permission and broke five separate traffic laws and was involved in three accidents early in the morning of September 3, appeared before Mr W. F. Pickering at Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

The magistrate deferred judgment in the case until tomorrow morning, to give him time to consider the facts.

'CAIN AND ABEL RELATIONSHIP' CHURCH LEADER TELLS COURT

The chairman of the Hongkong and Kowloon Pentecostal Mission admitted in the Supreme Court today that there was always jealousy between himself and his brother.

Mr Sung Sheung-hong told Mr Justice J. R. Gregg that there was a "Cain and Abel relationship".

He was giving evidence in support of an action he has brought in the Court of appeal on an order declaring that the Pentecostal Tabernacle in Waterloo Road, Kowloon, is the property of the Pentecostal Mission.

Mr Sung and Mr Wong King-fong, secretary of the Mission, are also asking for another Court order that would make Mrs Lee Wong So-ching, treasurer of the Kowloon branch church, execute a declaration of trust of the property in favour of the Mission.

In addition they want her to give them an accounting of Mission funds from 1950 onwards.

Stopped Preaching

Mrs Lee claims the Kowloon church congregation refused to support Mr Sung as head of the Mission, following the death of his father, the former Pastor of the Mission, last October. She also claims the Kowloon church is financially self-supporting.

Mr Sung has alleged that he was prevented by force from preaching in the Kowloon church last November.

He said in Court today that Mrs Lee came to his house on October 28 last year and told him that he should not go to Kowloon to preach.

Mr Justice Gregg: "I suppose that after this experience in November you are not very keen to preach in the Kowloon church any more."

He then said that unless some effort is made to get the opinion of what are the real owners of this property, the active members of the mission, he could not see that any lasting arrangement could be made.

Only Then

"I don't care, Mr Sung, which side wins in this matter so long as it is the one supported by the majority of the members of the mission."

"When you have this opinion of the members only then can we arrive at a decision."

"As things are going now I can see that it is only a case of incrimination."

"You should concentrate only on those who are members of the mission by baptism and let their views be obtained by a neutral individual."

"In other words, I want a certified list of members who have been baptised in the church and old members of the mission."

The Judge then adjourned the court while Mrs Lee's Counsel, Mr Brook Bernacchi, and Mr R. W. S. Winter, for Mr Sung, discussed the matter.

Hearing continuing.

$4 BRIBE COSTS WOMAN $100

A policeman, who arrested a woman hawker, after she had offered him a bribe of $4 to stay away from an area where a certain quantity of dutiable tobacco was to arrive from Macao, was commended for his good work by Central Magistrate Mr T. L. Morris this morning.

The defendant was Chan Tui-mui, 40. She was found guilty of offering a bribe to a police officer and fined $100 or 14 days.

Chan Fong, PC 2092, testified that at about 1.40 p.m. on October 23, he was walking along Connaught Road Central when, at the junction of Gilman Street, he was approached by the woman who said: "A small quantity of tobacco is arriving from Macao please go away from this vicinity. I will give you $4 for tea."

Witness said that when she put the money into his hand he arrested her.

Inspector J. Dempsey prosecuted.

The woman, Chen Lin-fon, 25, of 44 Cameron Road, eighth floor, pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving, driving without the owner's consent, causing damage to private property, driving without third party insurance, driving without an instructor and driving without an "L" plate.

A charge of driving while under the influence of drinks was dismissed when the prosecution offered no evidence.

A Party

Inspector Kam Yui-oi, prosecuting, said defendant, after a party with some friends in the evening of September 2 which lasted to the small hours of the following morning, decided to take her friend's car parked nearby at Kimberley Road. The car, a Chevrolet, had been used by her on certain occasions with the permission of the friend.

Here is what happened. She drove it to Tin Chow Street where it collided with a Hillman, causing damage to both cars.

After the accident, she asked a taxi driver, Chan Sau-pak, to drive her car.

The request was refused and she drove it into a one-way street and on turning round the corner into Talpo Road, drove onto the pavement and across a traffic island.

She nearly collided with another car in that street, but on turning to the junction of Prince Edward Road, she passed a red light and collided straight into an Airways bus.

After the collision, she failed to stop, and crashed into a radio shop, damaging about $5,929 worth of radios.

If Only . . .

Mr Edmund Cheung, of Peter Mo and Co., who appeared for defendant, said in mitigation that after the first accident with the Hillman, she had asked a taxi driver to drive, but he had refused, asking $50 for the favour.

"If the taxi driver had been willing to drive the car for defendant after the collision with the Hillman, perhaps nothing else would have happened."

LUNIK III's CAMERAS

Moscow, Oct. 27. The camera inside Lunik III which took photos of the moon's hidden face carried two lenses with focal lengths of 200 and 1,500 millimetres.

The 200-millimetre lens was used to take a full photo of the lunar surface, and the 1,500 millimetre lens to get more detailed views.

The camera used a special 35 millimetre film with an automatic timing adjuster.—AFP.

Visiting Hongkong

Sir Oliver and Lady Slimmonds, of Nassau, Bahamas, arrived here this morning in the APL passenger liner President Wilson from Yokohama, on a two weeks' visit to the Colony.

Sir Oliver, who is the founder of the Slimmonds Group of Aircraft Accessories and Equipment Company, a world-wide organization, will be doing "a little business" during the visit.

Sir Oliver was Conservative MP for the Duddleston Division of Birmingham, from 1931-1945. He is seen in this photo with Lady Slimmonds, in the Royal Suite of the as President Wilson. — Inspira Photo.

Electricity Commission

(Continued from Page 1)

"In the view of the Commission this right is only in accordance with natural justice; and whereas the Commission will not have the right abused, it is hoped that this part of the procedure will help in the ascertaining of the facts; and that, after all, is what we are here for," the Chairman said.

Referring to certain points raised by Mr Wright, he made it clear that while he was sure that everyone wanted to get through with the enquiry as expeditiously as possible, the Commission considered "that the time factor must be subordinate to the ascertainment of the full facts upon which to base our recommendations."

NO REMINDING

Mr Mould added, "The Commission needs no reminding that it is they, not anybody else, who have been appointed to institute this enquiry; nevertheless persons who come within any of the categories mentioned in Section 6 of the Commissioners Powers Ordinance have rights under the Ordinance, and we have a duty to see to it that they are not deprived of these rights. To use your own phrase, we are not here to clip anybody's wings where these wings have been expressly provided by law."

Mr Wright said that his clients were under a misapprehension as to the role played by those parties, and now that the Chairman had indicated clearly what the procedure was, they would accept it.

He added: "I am very surprised and alarmed to learn that the impression created by my clients last Friday should have given an indication of evasion."

Mr Wright said that his clients had thought that they had done everything possible to help the inquiry even to going back many years to get all the documents available.

"It has never been my advice or their intention to avoid and evade the facts and if such an impression has been created, it was not intended and will be removed by the manner in which questions and facts will be dealt with henceforth. I assure the Commission that there will be no evasion," Mr Wright said.

Beer Deal Ends In $500 Fine For Chinese

Kenneth Cheng Koon-shing, 53, director of the Tai Hing Co., was fined $500 by Central Magistrate Mr E. Corbally this morning, for obtaining credit by fraud.

On August 13 last year, Cheng and a 32-year-old housewife, Chan Shu-mui, alias Annie Chan, charged jointly with Cheng, received from a German merchant, Mr George Max Koerper, 487 cartons of beer for which payment was due to be made by October 6, 1958.

Mr Koerper received no money.

Miss Chan, who was acquitted this morning, testified at a previous hearing of the case that whatever money she received for beer sold, she handed to Cheng.

Mr Corbally said he believed her story and that he felt that Cheng had obtained the beer from Mr Koerper on credit, with fraudulent intentions.

Mr Walter Hor of Alfred H. and Co., appeared for Miss Chan. Detective Sub-Inspector Ko Chuen prosecuted.

From the Files

25 years AGO

MR—Aw Boon-haw, the well-known Chinese philanthropist has returned to Hongkong after a flying visit to Hainan. A Canton gunboat was sent specially by General Chan Chai-tong to Hongkong on Monday to convey Mr Aw, his attorney, Mr Ip Kwai-chung and Mr Chow Shing-name to Hoihow.

On arrival in the afternoon the party were given a tremendous welcome.

Mr Aw and party visited the Leper Asylum which was donated by him, hospitals and schools, as he had in mind a scheme for industrial and commercial promotion to Klungchow.

The name of Dr Edmund McMahon has been added to the Dental Register. He is joining Dr Burton.

EXTRACT HMS Kent from 25 years ago: presents a fine show in the Naval dock which, as already announced in our columns, she entered yesterday to undergo a general clean up.

She is the third vessel to enter the new dry dock and the first large cruiser, so that the holding capacity of the dock for vessels of the size of the cruiser was thoroughly tested.

What strikes the layman as peculiar is that there has been no official opening ceremony in connection with the opening of this great naval enterprise in Hongkong.

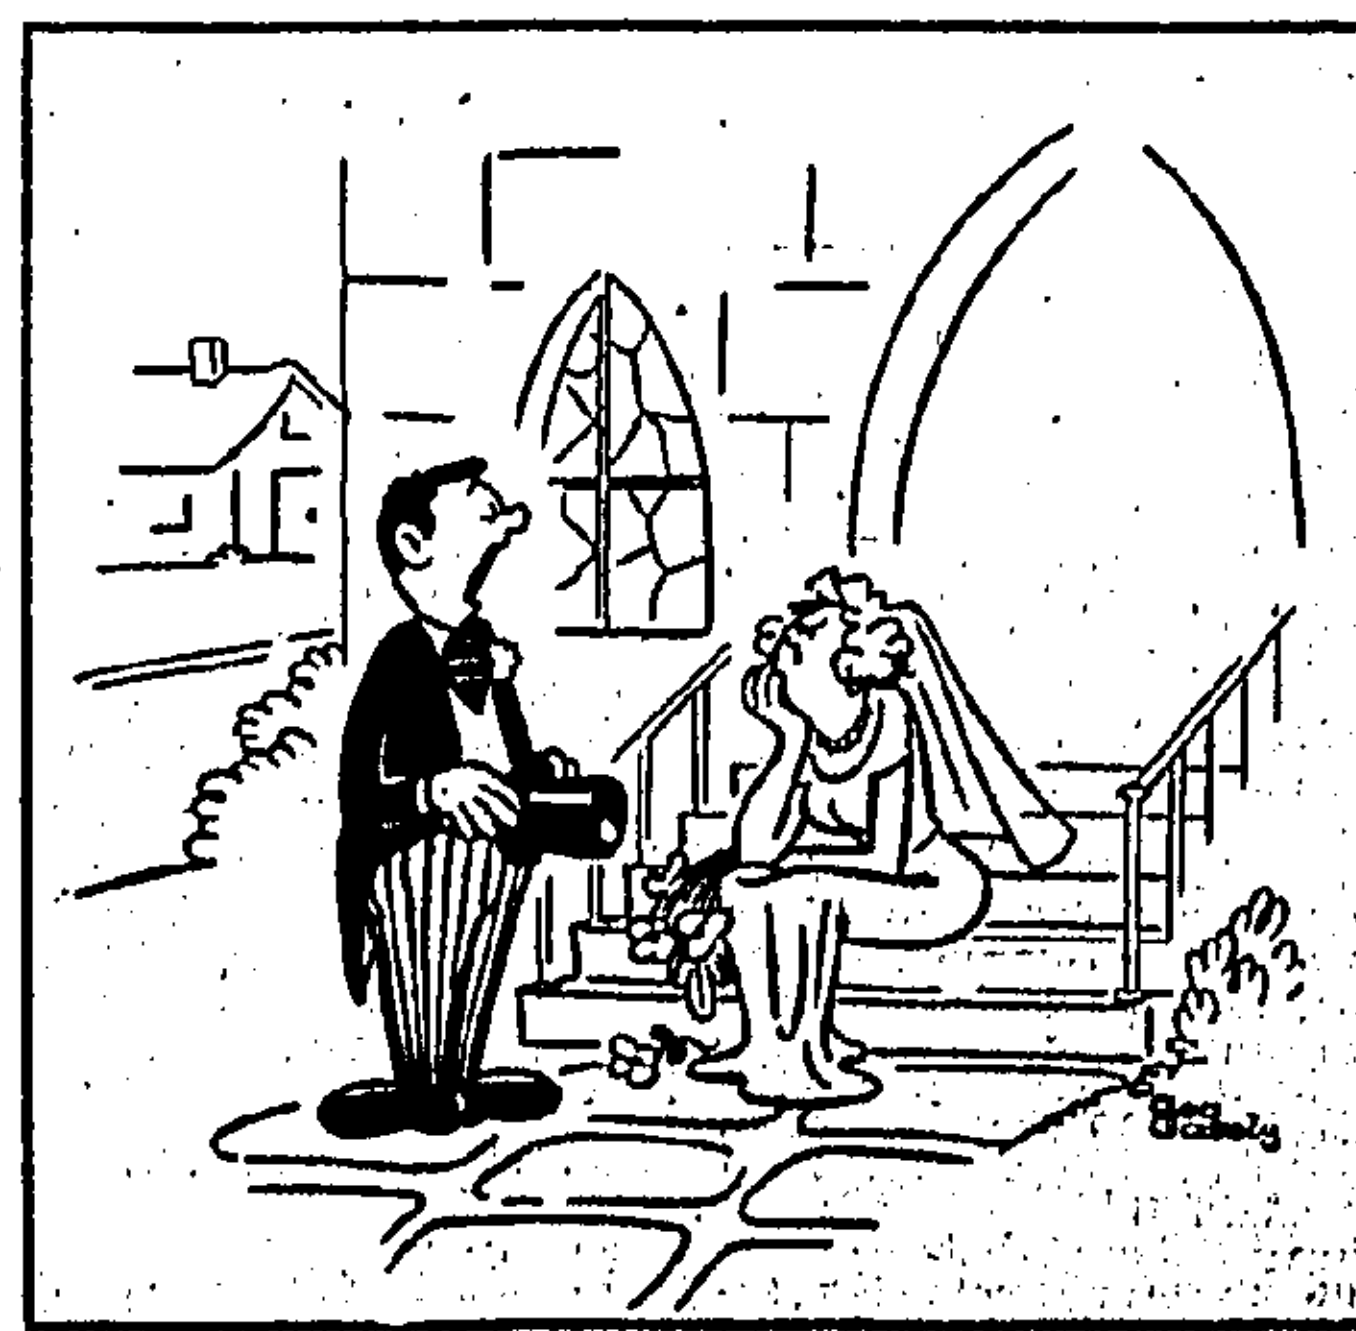

The foundation stone was "well and truly" laid with pomp and ceremony, but no public ceremony of any kind in connection with the opening of the dockyard has since been performed.

Though we read of princely functions in connection with the docks at home, it appears that the Hongkong dock, which has cost the nation some millions sterling, is to enter upon its career of usefulness without any fanfare whatever.

Lance-Sergeant L. V. Barker was found shot through the head in his room at the Central Police Station shortly before midnight last night. His own revolver, found lying by his side, suggested that he had taken his own life. Only a young man about 28 years of age, Barker joined the Hongkong Police five years ago. He hailed from Edinburgh.

HONGKONG is to have a new set of postage stamps next year (1959) to commemorate the King's Silver Jubilee.

This Funny World

Printed and published by THOMAS GORDON NEWLANDS, FRANKS and on behalf of South China Morning Post Limited, at 3-A Wyndham Street, City of Victoria in the Colony of Hongkong.

Broker Promised Bus Company Job, Sentenced To Gaol

Chau Tat-hung, a "manager" of a firm who claimed he could get a job in the China Motor Bus Company for a friend for $700, was sentenced to four months' gaol by Central Magistrate Mr T. L. Yang this morning.

Detective Sub-Inspector M. H. Groome said defendant was introduced to Lo Yung-kwong, who wanted to join the China Motor Bus Company.

He said he would help for $700. Lo agreed to pay half and the rest when he joined the company.

Inspector Groome said that Lo then paid Chau $350 sometime in March in the Lily Cafe in Leighton Road in the presence of another friend.

Lo wrote a letter to the company and was granted an interview but there were no vacancies at that time. Later Lo was again interviewed but it was found that he was underweight.

Lo then demanded his money back on many occasions without success.

A report was made to the police.

In Court this morning, Chau admitted to be a manager of a firm earning a monthly salary of $300.

The charge against Chau was obtaining money by false pretences.

He had one previous conviction for possessing arms and ammunition and possessing forged cheques.

He made full restitution to the complainant.

CREW OF SHIP WHICH SANK, BACK IN COLONY

A group of 30 Chinese crew members of the Hongkong-owned ship Laranah, which sank off the Philippines on October 18, arrived in the President Wilson this morning. The ship sank after striking an unidentified object.

The crew, left the ship several hours after a collision which occurred at 5 a.m.

The 45-year-old ship, of 782 dw. tons was on her way back to Hongkong from Brunel with a load of timber.

The captain of the Laranah and the comrade returned by air last Sunday. Among the crew who arrived this morning, were 18 natives of Taiwan who will be repatriated to Formosa.